POLITICAL POT IS BEGINNING TO BOIL IN VOLUSIA COUNTY

CIVIC LEAGUE OF LAKE HELEN MAKES START BY SUGGESTING MAYNARD BOND FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Up to this time there has been little doing in the way of political candidates being announced in Volusia county, but the pot is beginning to boil and from this time on the political game is expected to increase in excitement up to the time of the primary in June.

The Lake Helen Civic league has started the political ball to rolling over in that part of the county by suggesting the nomination of M. M. Bond as a member of the board of county commissioners to succeed Dr. G. W. Fisher, because the people of Lake Helen and vicinity believe the south and southeast parts of the county are entitled to some recognition in the spending of the money collected for road building and repairing purposes. Resolutions recently adopted by the Civic league of Lake Helen state the feelings of the people in the matter.

Following is a copy of the resolution adopted by the Lake Helen Civic league at a recent meeting:

First—Whereas, Lake Helen, while paying into the county treasury a large amount annually to the road fund, in direct taxes, and in automobile licenses, has received scant recognition in the matter of roads adjacent thereto—scarcely more than the auto license being spent on the DeLand-Lake Helen road—and that but temporary in pine-strawing. Frequent and vigorous protests have failed to influence favorable action, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Civic League of Lake Helen that a commissioner be chosen from our own community to represent us; one who is pledged to work for good roads from Lake Helen to DeLand, Orange City and New Smyrna. To this end we urge the nomination of Maynard M. Bond, well and favorably known as a practical man of affairs and most earnestly solicit for him the support of the other leagues of the county and of voters generally.

Second—Whereas, the property owners of Volusia county have peacefully submitted for many years to conditions that prevailed before northern people began to come here and make their homes and aid in the development of the county, we have been compelled by law to fence against stock running at large, expending very many times more thereby than all the stock is worth. People coming from the north, where everyone is compelled to take care of his own stock, are deterred from locating here and paying for the support of stock. A representative was sent to the last legislature with a petition signed by a majority of the property owners praying for relief from this intolerable state of affairs, only to find that Hon. J. B. Conrad was sent there pledged to a fence law. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Civic League of Lake Helen that candidates for the legislature be asked to answer the following questions in the county papers at once, or sufficiently before the date of the primaries to enable all voters to become aware of their positions:

Question 1.—Are you in favor of a no-fence law?

Question 2.—Are you in favor of a state road and state supervision of same.

Question 3.—Are you in favor of union of federal and state authorities in the making of hard roads and supervision of same?

The co-operation in this matter of other leagues and of the voters generally is earnestly hoped for, as by united and prompt action we may hope for reform. To this end the county papers are asked to give publicity to this note and these resolutions.

TROLLEY LINE MAY CONNECT NEW SMYRNA AND DAYTONA

PLANS BEING MADE TO EXTEND TRACKS OF COMPANY NOW OPERATING IN DAYTONA AND VICINITY.

That New Smyrna may soon enjoy the distinction of having a real street car line is indicated by Michael Sholtz, head of the company operating the new street railway line in Daytona, but Mr. Sholtz does not set any time when the line may be extended from Daytona down the mainland to this city.

Cars on the new line in Daytona were put into operation last fall and it is understood the venture has been a big success from the start of the first car. At present cars are operated only on a few of the main streets of Daytona and across the river to Daytona Beach and Seabreeze, the Clarendon hotel being the terminus of the run. The company has been operating three cars and these have been taxed to capacity to handle the business during the greater part of the winter season.

When plans were made for establishing the line in Daytona it was given out that extensions would be made if the business warranted, and it was said the first extension would be up the peninsula from Seabreeze to Ormond, then an extension would be made to DeLand and later to New Smyrna.

During the last week President Sholtz has given out plans to make the first extension of the line from Daytona to Allendale or Rose bay with the object of establishing an amusement park at the end of the line, with picnic grounds and amusements of various kinds to entertain the winter visitors to Daytona and vicinity. He also says the plans include an extension of the line to New Smyrna, but no time is set as to when the further extension is to be made. The plans are for the line to be built to Allendale or Rose bay during the coming summer and to have it completed and in operation by the opening of the next winter season.

When the road is completed through to New Smyrna it is understood large interurban cars will be operated on regular schedules at all times during the year, and it is believed such a line would do a good business during all months of the year.

ZELIA WILSON ARTIST IN THE DOLL DANCE.
TALLAHASSEE, March 30.—The junior class of the State College for Women distinguished itself in the splendid vaudeville given recently in the school auditorium. Miss Irma Blake of Ocala was musical director and Miss Ruby McLin of Tallahassee had charge of the dramatic section of the program.

The girls appeared in clever and original roles. The performance of the Yama Yama girls in attractive costumes, led by Emma Lee King and Verna Monroe, was heartily enjoyed and Zelia Wilson was a perfect artist in the doll dance. Several choruses were well rendered. A one-act play, "Miss Civilization," by Richard Harding Davis, proved that the juniors can do great acts of burglary in a way to surprise their friends. The class is looking forward to their place as leaders in college life next year, so they are now becoming generous to the various organizations and will contribute the proceeds of this entertainment to the Y. M. C. A. for the new Victoria.

The vaudeville was a very creditable affair and showed wonderful ability in staging the numbers acceptably without the aid of an instructor. The Tallahassee group of Camp Fire girls held its March council recently in the Y. W. C. A. den. The candles of Work, Health and Love were lighted by Laura Hawthorne, Lillian Maguire and Flora Chandler. The song "Wokeo" was sung and the roll called. Then the honors were awarded, each girl receiving beads for work accomplished since the last meeting.

At this special meeting the following girls took the rank of Wood Gathers: Cassie Goodwin, Laura Hawthorne, Lillian Maguire, Flora Chandler, Annie Louise Schoefflin, Grace Chandler, Zelia Wilson, Blanche LeHardy, Mary Hanks, Alma Gibson and Bessie Michael and each received the camp fire ring.

W. B. Eckler made a business trip to Palatka Tuesday.

SAND-OIL ROAD AT EUSTIS

For the benefit of the people who are interested in good roads, the following facts are given concerning the sand-oil road in front of the New Ocklawaha hotel at Eustis:

The road was made of ordinary clean sand and asphaltic binder oil, each heated to a temperature of from 250 to 300 degrees and then mixed until the sand was perfectly black. The sand-oil combination was then put down on a sand-clay foundation—just as the street happened to be at the time—and rolled with a light roller. The thickness of the material is 3½ inches in the center, tapering to two inches at the edges. The length of the experiment, which was put down by and at the expense of the owner of the New Ocklawaha hotel, a New England contractor, is 600 feet and the width is nine feet. It is on a street on which there is a great deal of travel, being the route from the main business section of Eustis to Orlando and the immediate vicinity.

While hard, it is nearly noiseless when driven over. It has been down 14 months and during the warmest weather last summer it did not become soft and teams made not the slightest impression on the material. A farmer drove a disc harrow, partly set for work, over it and there was absolutely no damage. There is no evidence that the edges have been broken off by teams, automobiles or anything else running off it into the sand-clay substance making up the balance of the 30-foot street. It also shows up perfectly on the curve from the street to the drive in the hotel grounds.

The sand used was taken from the street and from the hotel grounds adjoining. A residuum asphalt oil, known as Standard Grade C binder, costing $27 per ton, was used. (Since then Montezuma asphalt oil has been quoted at $23 per ton.)

C. E. Childs, chairman of the good roads boosters of Lake county, who has thoroughly investigated the matter of cost and lasting qualities in other sections where it is in use, and a Mr. Smith, a New England contractor, whose firm put down the experiment stretch, are both well posted on the sand-oil road problem.

Any good grade of sand may be used and the character would determine whether fine or coarse best suited. Every particle of the sand must be thoroughly dry. These men are of the opinion that the sand sub-soil along the right of way of roads would be satisfactory.

The asphaltic oil is made from the refuse products of oil wells. There are 240 gallons to the ton. No mixing of the oil before heating is required. From 18 to 20 gallons of the oil per cubic yard of material are required.

In Massachusetts, where the cost of such a road is 40 cents per square yard put down, 30 cords of wood at $6 per cord per mile are required for heating the sand and oil. In addition the sand used had to be paid for.

A sand base will be as effective as a clay base for such a road. A sand-oil road may be put down only in dry weather.

To get the best results the sand-oil combination should be put down the proper thickness—which in this county should be four inches—then rolled with a very light roller, something about the weight of a tennis roller. In about eight hours it should be rolled with a two-ton roller. Twelve hours after the last rolling it is ready for traffic.

The people of Eustis believe that it is the material for Florida roads and Lake county, which has recently voted half a million dollars for good roads, will build 200 miles of the sand-oil road. Mr. Childs says they will be able to build it for 40 cents per square yard, with a little more for contingencies. Both he and Mr. Smith believe a contractor would charge more, perhaps 50 to 60 cents.

It seems to be the unanimous opinion of the men who have examined and studied the sand-oil road at Eustis that this sand-oil combination is the real road material for Florida; that it will permit all to make use of the raw materials at their doors and in consequence to build more roads at less expense than of any other material, not excepting clay or marl. Further, that it will last many times as long as sand-clay.

Gossip of the Town by the Town Gossiper

I understand President Michael Sholtz of the Central of Florida Railway company, which owns and operates the new street car line in Daytona, has given out a statement that the street railway line will be extended during the summer from Daytona south to Allendale or Rose bay and that an amusement park will be established at the end of the line. If we see the line extended that far down the river toward New Smyrna we can almost begin to hope the line will some time be extended on down to this city. It has been a long time since I have climbed aboard a trolley car, but I'm willing to join the strap-hangers brigade any time Mike Sholtz pushes his railroad down to this town, and I reckon I would be blowing myself to a ride between this city and that amusement park quite often. It appeals to me that a trolley line between Daytona and New Smyrna would do a good business at all seasons of the year, and a corking good business during the winter months. Let's hope Mike Sholtz won't forget New Smyrna when he begins extending that road.

J. C. Lyle doesn't impress me as being a man who is afraid of anything, but they tell me that an ordinary little, blinking screech owl put him so far to the bad recently that he went to the mayor for permission to use his shotgun with a the city limits to send poor "Screechy" into another world. Maybe it wasn't a case of fear, perhaps it was a case of nerves, but the fact remains that Lyle's desire to get rid of that screech owl became so strong that the city executive gave the permission necessary for the owl's journey across the river Styx. Lyle claims this owl had him singled out from among the other thousands of persons in this city and would greet him with a screech every time he hailed into sight along the vacant lots on Canal street just west of Herriek's jewelry store, although the bird paid no attention to any other man, woman or child. At first these screeches came only in the evening, but the bird finally got to staying awake daytimes just to hail his friend Lyle with a screech, and Lyle didn't like it. Now the owl is dead.

Desiring to know just how Senator Duncan Fletcher stands on this matter of his bill to have the government take over the inland waterway along the East Coast, the secretary of the local board of trade recently wrote the honorable senator and asked him for answers to a few questions. The answers came back and they were smooth and flattering, although evasive, but were accompanied by a request that his stand on the matter be kept away from the newspapers, which savored too much of the senator's reputation as a fence-rider to make much of a bit with the members of the board of trade.

WATERWAY MEETING WILL BE HELD IN NEW SMYRNA SOON

DELEGATES FROM ALL THE COUNTIES INTERESTED IN THE INLAND WATERWAY TO COME HERE FOR DISCUSSIONS.

To keep up interest in the movement to have the government take over and control the East Coast inland waterway, preparations are being made to call a meeting of delegates from the various counties along the route of the canal to be held in New Smyrna in the near future. The matter of calling the meeting will be taken care of by the entertainment committee of the local board of trade.

The proposition of having the government own and control the inland waterway was discussed at a meeting held in St. Augustine several weeks ago and it was decided at that time to hold another meeting in New Smyrna, leaving the matter of calling the gathering to the New Smyrna board of trade.

The introduction of Senator Fletcher's bill in the United States senate, authorizing the president to appoint a commission to examine the present canal route, together with the cost of opening a new route to practically parallel the present waterway, and report on the cost of deepening to 10 feet and widening to 100 feet the full length of the waterway, has renewed interest in the proposition, and it is expected there will be a large attendance of delegates from the various counties when the gathering is held here.

The exact date of the meeting will be announced later.

ALBERT MOELLER WEDS ETHEL LEE SHEPPARD.

At a quiet wedding, performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCarthy by Rev. J. J. Treadwell, pastor of the Trinity church, Albert Moeller and Ethel Lee Sheppard were united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning. There were no guests. Dinner was served for the bride and groom by Mrs. McCarthy.

Both the bride and groom are well known in New Smyrna and since the wedding ceremony they have been receiving the congratulations of their hosts of friends. They will be at home to their friends in Mrs. R. J. McCarthy's cottage.

MRS. CHOWNING'S FATHER DIES AT VIRGINIA HOME.

A telegram received by Dr. W. C. Chowning Wednesday conveyed the information that J. E. Blackmore, father of Mrs. Chowning and Mrs. Geo. H. Stewart, died at his home at Sonora, Va., that morning. Death resulted from an attack of pneumonia. In response to a message saying their father was very ill Mrs. Chowning and Mrs. Stewart, who has been a guest at the Chowning home in this city for several weeks, left the last part of last week for Sonora and they were with their father when the end came.

TWO TRAINS ON F. E. C. TAKEN OFF FOR SUMMER.

The first move toward cutting down the train service for the summer schedule on the Florida East Coast railroad was made the last of the week, when the Palm Beach Limited trains, Nos. 33 and 34, were taken off, showing the break in the winter tourist business. It is understood that further changes will be made in the schedule next week, but that the regular summer schedule will show the Atlantic Coast Line trains, Nos. 87 and 88, operated through between Key West and New York all summer.

WORK ON PLAYGROUNDS TO BE CONTINUED TODAY.

The work of preparing the public market street for a public playground will be continued this afternoon and all public spirited men who are interested in the proposition are invited to be on hand to take instructions from Foreman W. A. Craig for the afternoon.

The ground is now mostly cleared and the work of levelling and placing shell and marl will be done today. It is planned to prepare a first class tennis court, a good croquet ground and a good quoits ground which will be for the use of the public at all times.

A. W. Shattuck, who recently submitted to an operation for gall stones, has sufficiently recovered from the effects of the ordeal to be removed from the hospital to his home.

HIGH PRICES ARE PAID FOR PRODUCE IN NORTHERN CITIES

GROWERS OF THIS STATE ARE WONDERING WHY BIG PROFITS SHOULD GO TO COMMISSION MEN.

"Who gets the money?" Tomatoes which sold for $2.25 in this state cost the northern consumer in Chicago, Sioux City, Omaha and Des Moines all the way from $8 to $14, according to reports received by M. L. Williams, secretary of the Florida Growers' company, and he is mailing copies of these reports to the growers of the company as an illustration to them of the money they don't get and of what the northern consumers are willing to pay for produce if they have to.

The reports were mailed by Fred Russell, a northern traveling man, who has been employed by the Growers' association to mail the prices charged northern consumers for Florida produce at the different cities which he visits.

"The growers of this country ought to feel rich when they read the reports of the big prices which the northern men are paying for the produce they raise," said Mr. Williams, "but unless we are able to cut out some of these commission men we will never enjoy the actual sensation. Somebody is getting the money, and it isn't the grower. It is the business of this association, in so far as it is able, to help the grower to eliminate the commission men, and we have done much this year to get better prices. The more growers, however, who get into the association, the better prices we will be able to get. In union there is strength."

At Sioux City tomatoes sold for 35 cents per pound, or at the rate of $14 per crate, and they are reported as "poor quality." These tomatoes or some just like them, sold in Miami for $2.25 per crate. Peppers brought $1.20 per dozen in the grocery stores of Sioux City, and thirty cents each was asked for egg plants.

In Des Moines tomatoes sold for 30 cents per pound, or $12 per crate, and are reported "very poor quality." Peppers sold for 80 cents per dozen and egg plants for 25 cents each.

At Peoria, Illinois, tomatoes sold for 15 cents per pound, or $10 per crate, and peppers at 80 cents per dozen. Egg plants brought 20 cents each. In Chicago tomatoes sold from 10 to 30 cents per pound according to the quality, or from $4 to $12 per crate. Peppers sold from 30 cents to $1.30 per dozen, and egg plants from 10 to 30 cents each. At Omaha tomatoes sold for 20 and 25 cents per pound, or from $8 to $10 per crate. Peppers sold at 40 cents per dozen, and egg plants from 20 to 25 cents each.

BAPTIST CHURCH EXTENDS CALL TO REV. GILBERT FARR

CRESCENT CITY PASTOR ACCEPTS THE INVITATION TO SUCCEED REV. J. T. JENNER IN THIS CITY.

A formal call to the Rev. Gilbert E. Farr of Crescent City to become pastor of the Baptist church in this city to succeed the Rev. J. T. Jenner has been extended by the church and has been accepted by Rev. Mr. Farr, who will begin his duties as pastor here the third Sunday in this month. The resignation of Rev. Mr. Jenner, to take effect April 12th, was accepted by the local church some time ago, and Rev. and Mrs. Jenner will leave here April 14 for Atlanta, where he will take up his work as a representative of the state Baptist orphanage in Georgia.

M. L. GOULD ENTERTAINS THE ONE-CIRCLE CLUB.

Members of the One-Circle club were entertained this week by M. L. Gould in the Woman's club room, the 6:30 o'clock dinner being served by the members of the Woman's club. The dinner was an excellent one and well served, the attractive decorations of the table and room adding much to the pleasure of the evening. Following the dinner some time was spent by the club members in general discussions and conversation. W. A. Craig will be the host to the club members at the Woman's club room next Tuesday evening.

Let's hope Mike Sholtz won't forget New Smyrna when he begins extending that road.

J. C. Lyle doesn't impress me as being a man who is afraid of anything, but they tell me that an ordinary little, blinking screech owl put him so far to the bad recently that he went to the mayor for permission to use his shotgun with the city limits to send poor "Screech" into another world. Maybe it wasn't a case of fear, perhaps it was a case of nerves, but the fact remains that Lyle's desire to get rid of that screech owl became so strong that the city executive gave the permission necessary for the owl's journey across the river Styx. Lyle claims this owl had him singled out from among the other thousands of persons in this city and would greet him with a screech every time he hailed into sight along the vacant lots on Canal street just west of Herrick's jewelry store, although the bird paid no attention to any other man, woman or child. At first these screeches came only in the evening, but the bird finally got to staying awake daytimes just to hail his friend Lyle with a screech, and Lyle didn't like it. Now the owl is dead.

Desiring to know just how Senator Duncan Fletcher stands on this matter of his bill to have the government take over the inland waterway along the East Coast, the secretary of the local board of trade recently wrote the honorable senator and asked him for answers to a few questions. The answers came back and they were smooth and flattering, although evasive, but were accompanied by a request that his stand on the matter be kept away from the newspapers, which savored too much of the senator's reputation as a fence-rider to make much of a bit with the members of the board of trade.

WATERWAY MEETING WILL BE HELD IN NEW SMYRNA SOON

DELEGATES FROM ALL THE COUNTIES INTERESTED IN THE INLAND WATERWAY TO COME HERE FOR DISCUSSIONS.

To keep up interest in the movement to have the government take over and control the East Coast inland waterway, preparations are being made to call a meeting of delegates from the various counties along the route of the canal to be held in New Smyrna in the near future. The matter of calling the meeting will be taken care of by the entertainment committee of the local board of trade.

The proposition of having the government own and control the inland waterway was discussed at a meeting held in St. Augustine several weeks ago and it was decided at that time to hold another meeting in New Smyrna, leaving the matter of calling the gathering to the New Smyrna board of trade.

The introduction of Senator Fletcher's bill in the United States senate, authorizing the president to appoint a commission to examine the present canal route, together with the cost of opening a new route to practically parallel the present waterway, and report on the cost of deepening to 10 feet and widening to 100 feet the full length of the waterway, has renewed interest in the proposition, and it is expected there will be a large attendance of delegates from the various counties when the gathering is held here.

The exact date of the meeting will be announced later.

ALBERT MOELLER WEDS ETHEL LEE SHEPPARD.

At a quiet wedding, performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCarthy by Rev. J. J. Treadwell, pastor of the Trinity church, Albert Moeller and Ethel Lee Sheppard were united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning. There were no guests. Dinner was served for the bride and groom by Mrs. McCarthy.

Both the bride and groom are well known in New Smyrna and since the wedding ceremony they have been receiving the congratulations of their hosts of friends. They will be at home to their friends in Mrs. R. J. McCarthy's cottage.

MRS. CHOWNING'S FATHER DIES AT VIRGINIA HOME.

A telegram received by Dr. W. C. Chowning Wednesday conveyed the information that J. E. Blackmore, father of Mrs. Chowning and Mrs. Geo. H. Stewart, died at his home at Sonoma, Va., that morning. Death resulted from an attack of pneumonia. In response to a message saying their father was very ill, Mrs. Chowning and Mrs. Stewart, who has been a guest at the Chowning home in this city for several weeks, left the last part of last week for Sonoma and they were with their father when the end came.

TWO TRAINS ON F. E. C. TAKEN OFF FOR SUMMER.

The first move toward cutting down the train service for the summer schedule on the Florida East Coast railroad was made the last of the week, when the Palm Beach Limited trains, Nos. 33 and 34, were taken off, showing the break in the winter tourist business. It is understood that further changes will be made in the schedule next week, but that the regular summer schedule will show the Atlantic Coast Line trains, Nos. 87 and 88, operated through between Key West and New York all summer.

WORK ON PLAYGROUNDS TO BE CONTINUED TODAY.

The work of preparing the public market street for a public playground will be continued this afternoon and all public spirited men who are interested in the proposition are invited to be on hand to take instructions from Foreman W. A. Craig for the afternoon.

The ground is now mostly cleared and the work of leveling and placing shell and marl will be done today. It is planned to prepare a first class tennis court, a good croquet ground and a good quoits ground which will be for the use of the public at all times.

A. W. Shattuck, who recently submitted to an operation for gall stones, has sufficiently recovered from the effects of the ordeal to be removed from the hospital to his home.

HIGH PRICES ARE PAID FOR PRODUCE IN NORTHERN CITIES

GROWERS OF THIS STATE ARE WONDERING WHY BIG PROFITS SHOULD GO TO COMMISSION MEN.

"Who gets the money?" Tomatoes which sold for $2.25 in this state cost the northern consumer in Chicago, Sioux City, Omaha and Des Moines all the way from $8 to $14, according to reports received by M. L. Williams, secretary of the Florida Growers' company, and he is mailing copies of these reports to the growers of the company as an illustration to them of the money they don't get and of what the northern consumers are willing to pay for produce if they have to.

The reports were mailed by Fred Russell, a northern traveling man, who has been employed by the Growers' association to mail the prices charged northern consumers for Florida produce at the different cities which he visits.

"The growers of this country ought to feel rich when they read the reports of the big prices which the northern men are paying for the produce they raise," said Mr. Williams, "but unless we are able to cut out some of these commission men we will never enjoy the actual sensation. Somebody is getting the money, and it isn't the grower. It is the business of this association, in so far as it is able, to help the grower to eliminate the commission men, and we have done much this year to get better prices. The more growers, however, who get into the association, the better prices we will be able to get. In union there is strength."

At Sioux City tomatoes sold for 35 cents per pound, or at the rate of $14 per crate, and they are reported as "poor quality." These tomatoes or some just like them, sold in Miami for $2.25 per crate. Peppers brought $1.20 per dozen in the grocery stores of Sioux City, and thirty cents each was asked for egg plants. In Des Moines tomatoes sold for 30 cents per pound, or $12 per crate, and are reported "very poor quality." Peppers sold for 90 cents per dozen and egg plants for 25 cents each.

At Peoria, Illinois, tomatoes sold for 15 cents per pound, or $10 per crate, and peppers at 80 cents per dozen. Egg plants brought 20 cents each. In Chicago tomatoes sold from 10 to 30 cents per pound according to the quality, or from $4 to $12 per crate. Peppers sold from 30 cents to $1.20 per dozen, and egg plants from 10 to 30 cents each. At Omaha tomatoes sold for 20 and 25 cents per pound, or from $8 to $10 per crate. Peppers sold at 40 cents per dozen, and egg plants from 20 to 25 cents each.

M. L. GOULD ENTERTAINS THE ONE-CIRCLE CLUB.

Members of the One-Circle club were entertained this week by M. L. Gould in the Woman's club room, the 6:30 o'clock dinner being served by the members of the Woman's club. The dinner was an excellent one and well served, the attractive decorations of the table and room adding much to the pleasure of the evening. Following the dinner some time was spent by the club members in general discussions and conversation. W. A. Craig will be the host to the club members at the Woman's club room next Tuesday evening.

WILBUR-BY-SEA

A very hearty "Come in" greeted the correspondent of the Gazette-News when, on a recent afternoon, he knocked at the office door of the Wilbur Land company at Wilbur-by-the-Sea. On entering we were fortunate to find J. W. Wilbur alone in the office and was soon made to feel very much at home. In a very short time we became aware of the fact that among the many other interesting features of the new town the most interesting of all was Mr. Wilbur himself. Born and reared on a farm in Maine, he came to manhood, robust in body and mind, and with an everlasting love of cut-door life and its charms which he had learned to love.

About 25 years ago Mr. Wilbur entered the real estate business and for a quarter of a century now has devoted himself extensively to this work. The success of his efforts is evidenced in the fact that he is now at the head of one of the largest real estate firms in the New England states.

The home of Mr. Wilbur is now in Brookline, Mass., with the principal offices of his company in Boston, and they have agencies in nearly all of the leading cities of the north and south.

About four years ago Mr. Wilbur realized the necessity of getting away from the cold winters of the north and came to Florida in search of a desirable place to build a winter home. The first winter in the state he visited the principal cities, traveling from Jacksonville to the West Coast, and from Jacksonville to Key West, and Cuba. Becoming satisfied that the East Coast of the state best suited his desires for a winter home, there remained only the question of where on the East Coast. As an instance of the gentleman's careful study and consideration of all matters we note the fact that he was not satisfied to make a final selection of a winter home until, while spending two winters at the Clarendon hotel, he made a careful canvass on the East Coast from St. Augustine on the north to Miami on the south in an automobile to find just the spot best suited to his ideas. This place was found a little more than two years ago, and found where few other men would have made such a selection. A clear proof of his wisdom and good judgment is the pretty town which he has built and its popularity with all who visit the place.

In Christmas week of 1913 Mr. Wilbur arrived from Boston, bringing with him a crew of men, two spans of large draft horses, and all necessary machinery for clearing the land and building roads and streets. After remaining here exactly three months Mr. Wilbur returned to Boston, the last week in March, fully satisfied with his first winter's work. In this period of time he had dredged a canal from the main channel of the Halifax river to the borders of the new town and built substantial docks and a commodious pavilion, where one may rest and read or fish at the heart's desire.

The next step was to install a system of water works which was done in a very short time. In the pumping station was installed two 1600-gallon tanks into which the water is pumped by a gasoline engine. In these tanks there is an air pressure of from 60 to 65 pounds all the time, which forces the water into all of the cottages. At this time more than one and a half miles of water pipe have been laid, extending from one end of the town to the other and supplying every house with an abundance of water for all purposes.

The first season saw the completion of 10 houses in all, including the pretty home which Mr. Wilbur built for himself and which he and his family have occupied the present season. Among the other improvements of the first season we note the building and shelling of streets, an approach to the ocean beach, a tennis court, croquet grounds and sundry other things to make the place both beautiful and attractive.

After an absence of nine months Mr. Wilbur returned, arriving again in Christmas week and bringing with him the same force of men and horses to continue the work which he had undertaken just a year previous; and now at the expiration of another three months on the eve of his departure for the north, he leaves the town more than doubled in size and beauty. The town now boasts of nearly two miles of shelled and graded streets.

Being curious to know what it was that attracted Mr. Wilbur to this particular place on the peninsula, we made bold to ask him to give us his reasons, and his answer was: "The ocean, the river and these large mounds of shells," and then added: "I wanted to see what I could do with this combination." In answer to the question: "What are your plans for the future?" Mr. Wilbur replied: "I really have no fixed plans for the future. In the first place I did not come here to build a town, but a winter home; I have made no special effort to sell lots, but have sold only to those who, coming here, have been attracted by the place and wanted to buy and build homes here."

Mr. Wilbur furthermore assured us that he had been quite careful as to just who bought and settled in the new town as he was particular to have there only the best class of people. On pressing the question as to the future, Mr. Wilbur freely admitted that, in spite of his original plans, it seemed now to him that the town would grow to much larger proportions than he had at first anticipated and that if all circumstances combined to so order, he would do all within his power to help in its success.

The location of the town is at the narrowest point on the peninsula, which is only 300 feet wide at this point, and it is about two miles south of Port Orange bridge and seven miles south of Daytona. It has been agreed between Mr. Wilbur and those who have bought property there that he shall have installed by another season an electric lighting plant, which will complete a full list of all modern conveniences.

With the present development of Wilbur-by-the-Sea, and the new town of Allendale on the opposite side of the river; with the coming this summer of the electric railway from Daytona, it is a question of only a very few years until a new bridge will span the Halifax between the two places and the electric cars will cross the river to Wilbur and return to Daytona by way of the peninsula, possibly within less than two years.

Work for the present season at Wilbur-by-the-Sea will close down on Saturday night and all of Mr. Wilbur's immediate party will at once leave for Boston, with the exception of Contractor Eaton, who remains to build a home for himself and possibly one other house.

Bishop Leete, of Atlanta, Ga., who bought one of the most desirable lots in the place, will have a pretty home erected in time to be occupied during cottage built by John H. Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker, of Framingham Center, Mass., who bought recently, will also build a nice home in the early fall and it is quite probable that several other cottages will be erected in time to be occupied during the next winter.

Mr. Wilbur says he is leaving at this time, regretting that he can not stay longer, and will look forward with great anticipation of pleasure to the time when he can return and join the pleasant company of friends who have cast their lots with him in the new town of Wilbur-by-the-Sea.

THE DARK AGES
are rightly named, because the absence of light is synonymous with ignorance and superstition.
During that black period in the world's history man was fighting his way blindly towards enlightenment and modern civilization; for civilization and light have always gone hand in hand.
Today a telephone call will bring into your home the benefit of modern and efficient electric lighting service. The Number is 102.

FEDERAL MIGRATORY BIRD PROTECTION
NEW FEDERAL LAWS PROTECTING MIGRATORY BIRDS WILL BE ENFORCED TO FULLEST EXTENT.
Editor New Smyrna News:
With the slaughter of game birds, laws have become more strict, different states have gradually adopted laws for protecting birds and now the government, through the Department of Agriculture is most active in this direction.
The man who hunts must take out a license, the boy who hunts without one is a law breaker, and the man who hunts without one is more than a law breaker. The United States government is now taking a hand in the protection of birds through the migratory bird law. The chief game warden of the United States, Col. J. H. Acklen, is authority for the statement that the law will be enforced to its fullest extent.
The destruction of birds has become a national peril. The Department of Agriculture has found insects steadily on the increase because of the killing of all kinds of insectivorous birds. The government does not protect the English sparrow, the crow or chicken hawk.
In several states hunting is permitted in the spring season. As the birds fly northward these states permit them to be killed. The department has intervened and now forbids a continuance of this spring shooting which has been done as the nesting season was beginning.
Speaking of the new federal law, Col. Acklen says: "That the law meets a long felt want, of uniformity in protecting the migratory birds, must be admitted by all who have given the subject serious thought. This is an age of progress and advanced ideas and the migratory bird law is the most progressive measure in game and insectivorous bird protection ever enacted in this country. Under it many ineffective methods in various states will be corrected.
Government protection is effective, and the man who would defy a local warden will think twice before opposing authority vested in a federal official. One great destroyer of game is the market hunter. He spares nothing that commands a market and I have come to the conclusion that the only way to be rid of him is to absolutely prohibit the sale of game, and only then will he quit the business. The spirit of conservation is rapidly growing. The strong arm of the federal government which is far more potent in effect than the entire body of any state is embodied in the migratory bird law.
"In permitting the shooting of owls, woodpeckers, robins and meadow larks, the farmer, gardener and fruit grower is destroying workers who willingly toil for him more than eight hours daily. Instead of destroying these faithful servants, who do so much to eliminate field rodents and insects of all kinds, the farmer should protect and encourage the services.
"The department of agriculture says that the annual loss to crops in this country from worms and insects is now nearly one hundred million dollars. Birds are the principal protection against these pests and in killing the birds the farmer is only helping to make his loss the greater."
GEO. N. CHAMBERLIN.

Need Fear No Enemy.
The gigantic devilfish of southern waters, which will grow to 30 feet in width, bears but a single young one at a birth, the mother retaining it inside her body until it has grown to be four feet broad. The youthful devil fish coming into the world so big is in but little danger of an enemy.

Interest—ing.
An instrument resembling a watch has been invented in Hungary whereby it is possible instantly to compute the interest at any rate on any given sum of money for any length of time.

Big Demand for Goat Skins.
Seventy-five countries sent goat-skins to the United States last year, India being the largest single source of supply. The demand for such skins has increased greatly in recent years, owing to the needs of the shoe trade, and all grand divisions of the earth are called upon to stock the American market.

Brown Eyes.
Brown eyes are indications of deep feeling and quick susceptibility to individuals of the other sex. They usually mean liberality of feeling, a warm, clinging nature and a freedom from Puritanical prudery.
A Crucial Moment.
"Fibbison claims to have a hypnotic eye."
"It didn't help him any yesterday."
"How was that?"
"He was suddenly confronted by a landlady to whom he owed six months' board."

FANS SEE TWO REAL KNOCKOUTS
SAILOR LISLE IS THE GOODS
PRELIMINARY BOUT IS A GOOD ONE AND FANS WERE SATISFIED WITH THE EVENING'S CARD.
(From The Daytona Gazette-News)
The second boxing card staged at the New Daytona theatre Friday night was a success, and the fight fans could not complain about their money's worth. Two knock-outs in one evening is a pretty good show, and the second event was bloody enough to please the most particular.
Had Friday evening's bout been the first staged, the theatre would not have held the crowds for the second affair last evening, but there were many who attended the first imitation fight who were afraid of being stung. Not so with the big affair. Sailor Lisle showed what he can do, and it did not take him long to display a good knowledge of the many art of self-defense, and the technical ability to deliver a punch that was so swift the fans could only hear the impact.
In the preliminary event two colored youths put up a good fighting exhibition. The black who lost showed a nerve against certain odds, and after being floored in the fourth round nearly for the count came back strong and got in some good licks before he was put down and out for keeps in the fifth, without a drop of blood being split. The yellow, the pride of the San Juan garage, had a punch, was aggressive, and both acted like fighters. They did not stall for wind breaks, or anything else. They fought, and were up and at it like two cats at the tap of the gong. The five rounds they waded through were pleasant for the lack of loving clinching that was so much in evidence at the last "principal" bout a couple of weeks ago. The knockout came in the fifth round after a rap in the jaw, and it was some minutes after the defeated black had been carried bodily from the stage before he came back to life.
Then came the big noise. Sailor Lisle, and Kid Sherwood, the former in past of the United States navy, and the latter of New Haven, Ct. Who ever told him he had a living chance in the ring with Lisle or anybody else who has fought here this year ought to be turned over to the humane society. He was built as much like a fighter as a piece of macaroni. But he was game, for which he was rewarded with a bloody head, puffed face, collection of bumps, and the forfeiture of a few teeth. There was a dentist and couple of undertakers present, so it was all O. K. Lisle showed the goods, and showed in the first round that he could deliver.
Therefore, after the first round, he was told by Referee Hurd to not stall or delay matters but put the one who called himself "Kid" Sherwood out as soon as possible. He did. Sherwood's head and neck were already one mass of blood and at the start of the second round Lisle gave him an awful punishing, and delivered the knockout before the round was half over to the complete satisfaction of the house. Sherwood was prone on the stage like a dead one for many minutes while the crowd surged around and viewed the remains. Finally, with the aid of a dentist, Seflor Lisle and a few dozen suggestions the "Kid" was gotten to the dressing room and made presentable. Lisle gained many friends, and by the rapid fighting and genuine punches gained admirers and dispelled all allusions of any possible frame-up, even if the two boys do both live in Port Orange. Koert DuBois headed the Port Orange delegation.
The vanquished one may be from New Haven, his name may be Sherwood, and he, no doubt, is some "kid," but he is not the Kid Sherwood a dyed-in-the-wool New Haven fan knows. Not by a long shot.
The only dope ahead is that the victorious yellow from the San Juan has been challenged. The preliminaries have been a success.
Too Needy.
A friend in need generally needs too much.—New Orleans Picayune.
Various Customs.
"In China a fine is imposed when a train is late. Queer custom, eh?"
"Oh, I don't know. Ever notice what happens when a boat comes in late in this country?"
"No; what happens?"
"She is promptly docked."

Frank Frisbie and family returned to their farm two miles from town last Monday.

The Misses Berkley left Monday for their home in Pittsburgh. They will return in the fall.

Word has been received here that Mona Brazean of Elmira, N. Y., was married last week.

Wedding bells can be heard very distinctly in the distance. Wonder who will be the first.

Will Knight and Miss Elsie Bowman were united in marriage Sunday by our mayor, Dr. William Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Wright are recuperating at their "Heart's Content" cottage at Coronado Beach for ten days.

Messrs. Wood, Copeland and Barker spent Sunday at Coronado, where they go for their annual bath in the surf.

Our second and third grade baseball nine went to DeLand to play ball Saturday. They came back rather crestfallen.

Mr. and Mrs. Binger have returned to their home in Bloomington, Ill., after a pleasant winter spent in Arthur Pelton's house.

The Civic league entertained the ladies last Thursday evening. Punch and cake were served after a very entertaining program.

Mr. and Mrs. Stiles, cousins to Mrs. Francis, have returned to their home in New York after a stay of two weeks in Lake Helen.

Dr. and Mrs. Babcock are frequent visitors at the beach. Last week they brought back two large air plants they found in the jungle.

Miss Ruth Ingelhart returned from Daytona Beach to spend Sunday with Mrs. Claude Pelton. She will return north in two or three weeks.

The Ladies Union of the Baptist church gave a children's entertainment at the hall Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance.

Mr. Witty, formerly of Orlando, has bought two lots in town and ten acres for grove, five acres from Mrs. Newton and five from Ed Brown.

The colored children repeated their entertainment of Tom Thumb's wedding at the camp and took in $18 for their efforts. They are well trained.

The Civic league meets Tuesday instead of Thursday next week and a fine musical program has been arranged. There should be a large attendance.

John Copeland, Mack Barker, Leona Wright and Irene Barker motored to Enterprise and Greep Spring Monday and spent the day on a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland and son John motored to Daytona, Ormond and Port Orange last week. They are delighted with Florida, especially Lake Helen.

Claude Pelton has been appointed our next postmaster, to the entire satisfaction of all his friends, and the postoffice will remain where it is in the Niven building.

Mrs. Tom Clark, a sister to the late Tom Baker, and family have moved to Lake Helen from Ft. Pierce and are occupying one of the Bond cottages on Main street.

Bert Snoddy of the firm of Lowder & Snoddy, electricians, will leave for his home in Indianapolis in about two weeks. He will return in the fall and will probably bring "someone" with him.

The Civic league can do a little missionary work in and around the mill quarters. The spirit of cleanliness hasn't struck that quarter very recently and a few suggestions might not come amiss.

The Harlan hotel has closed for the season. It is hoped the hotel will open earlier and close later next year. Mr. and Mrs. Ingelhart have made many friends here. Mr. Ingelhart has proved that he is a real hotel man.

Mrs. Julia Wood of Massachusetts, aunt of Mrs. Wallace Jenkins, left Tuesday on her return north. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. William Gillette accompanied her by auto to Sanford, where Mrs. Wood took the boat. The rest of the party went to Orlando.

The strawberries are plentiful now and much cheaper in price. The fresh vegetables are coming in fast. Spring is here in full bloom. Northerners make a mistake by going away at this time, when they could enjoy life to the limit. Did the orange blossoms ever smell sweeter or the mocking birds ever sing better than this year? It is life to breathe in this delightful air while basking in the lovely sunshine.

Hawks Park

Arthur Wilkinson took a party to the beach one day last week in his launch. Among those making the trip for the first time were Mrs. A. Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Little and Mr. and Mrs. Fernald. All enjoyed the day.

Wednesday evening, April 8th, after the regular meeting of the V. I. A., H. I. Hamilton will deliver a lecture in the Hawks Park library building on his travels in Mexico, treating largely of personal experiences and of that class of people and that section of the country of which the histories and geographies say little or nothing.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Stephan of Colorado, on board their palatial yacht Loiterer II, put in at the Park to see their numerous friends and they were pleased to see the many improvements made recently. They think the new hall is a very fine building for such a small place. Thursday they took a party picnicking to Turtle Mound, Miss Gilson and Miss Merriell Willcutt being guests of honor. All had a very enjoyable day and came back tired but happy.

Dr. and Mrs. Davis Forster gave an elaborate party Tuesday night. Cards were played in the early part of the evening, then delightful refreshments were served, consisting of "Turkish Delight" lunch, many varieties of cake and delicious ice cream. The grand march was led by W. S. Hart and Miss Lily Gilson. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. G. Branning, G. Shaw, Miss Merriell Willcutt, Misses McGonigal, McGregor, and Silaby, who, with many others, made the evening pass very pleasantly.

BUILDING NEW ROAD TO THE EAST COAST.

An Orlando-Indian river highway will be completed within the next six months, the co-operation of Orange, Seminole, Volusia and Brevard counties, the Geneva board of trade and a colony concern, the Southern Farms & Fruit company, being assured.

The road will cross the St. Johns river about one mile above Lake Harney, though it is not expected that a bridge will be built this year. The road will be from Orlando through Geneva and through Volusia county due east through Brevard county to Mims, where it will connect with the through national highway along the East Coast. The work in Seminole county will be paid for by the board of trade, the county agreeing to maintain; in Volusia and Brevard counties the bulk of the work will be paid for by the land company above mentioned. Eight miles of the road have already been constructed.—Orlando Sentinel.

Chinese Memorial Arches. The p'ailous, or Memorial arches of China, says Frederick McCormick, in the National Geographic Magazine, rival the pagodas in grace, beauty and numbers. Many of them are erected to commemorate the devotion of virtuous widows who refuse to remarry. The faded phoenix, which never changes its mate, is prominent in the decoration of these arches.

WANTS ST. JOHNS AND NORTH INDIAN CONNECTED.

The question of transportation rates and lines is an ever present and increasingly important one. The Florida trucker can by his own efforts protect himself from loss by the few frosts which get after him, and has a fighting chance, fully as great as his northern confederates against plant disease and insects, but when it comes to transportation problems he is sadly deficient in urging his best interests.

The action of Senator Fletcher in asking for a commission of congress to investigate the question of the taking over by the government of the East Coast inland waterway is a move in the right direction.

In this connection our suggestion of the opening of a waterway from Sanford to Fellsmere via the St. Johns river, and from Fellsmere into the Indian river through Fellsmere's great drainage ditch is worthy of serious consideration. The fact that there is an engineering problem involved in this route is no deterrent. The solution of such problems is what engineers are for.

One thing which has undoubtedly delayed the development of Florida's waterways is the failure of her citizens to utilize these avenues of communication to an extent which would make the demand for an enlargement insistent. Along the East Coast are numerous cities and towns which might utilize such waterways as the rivers and canals up to Jacksonville afford, to great advantage. A large proportion of the goods brought here could be brought to their harbors at a greatly reduced cost, which should mean a reduction to the consumer. There is channel enough on this route to permit of the operating of a large number of shallow draft boats in this trade.

Meanwhile the present railroad and express rates are rapidly making converts of the vast majority of Florida's voters to the idea of government ownership of railroads.—Fellsmere Tribune.

Bill of Rights.
The bill of rights is a declaration of fundamental principles deemed basic to the Constitution itself and borrowed from the English bill of rights of 1689. When the Constitution of the United States was framed and submitted to the people it did not have a bill of rights and it was so harshly criticized on this account that its friends promised to incorporate or add such a declaration, and the first ten amendments to the Constitution, made after the main instrument was adopted, were in fulfillment of this promise. All the State Constitutions now have bills of rights, practically identical with one another.

Dodging Promotion.
There is a chafing-dish period for every college girl; but when the time comes for the promotion to the higher position hard by a grand square cooking stove, most of the graduates prefer to toot the alarm whistle on a limousine.—Dallas News.

Education.
Education is the whole effect of environment. The individual is in some way affected by everything with which he comes in contact, from the first moment of life until the end. Teaching is therefore a factor in evolution. It is a means of carrying on the development of the individual. Man is as yet incomplete; it is likely that all his best exercises still lie before him. He must be ready for what is to come.

They're Called "Help" by Courtesy.
"This is a large house you have," said Mrs. Pozoskie to Mrs. Pazuzkina. "Do you have to keep much help?" "I keep two," cooed Mrs. Pazuzkina, "but they're not much help."

BY THE TOWN GOSSIPER

William Lourcey finished his school work at Stetson university last week and went to St. Augustine to again take up his work in the Kewatin school. He will go north to Wisconsin with the Kewatin students this summer.

Mrs. W. B. Eckler and Mrs. E. E. Ireland will act as hostesses at the silver tea to be given in the Woman's club room next Saturday afternoon. A pleasing musical program has been prepared for the afternoon and a large attendance is expected.

The Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. R. S. Sheldon. There was a good attendance and a pleasant afternoon was spent. Refreshments of fruit punch and cake were served after the ladies had been treated to an April fool surprise in the refreshments.

Just why the senator should not want the public to thoroughly understand his position on this canal proposition was not made entirely clear, but there is a possibility, of course, that the people in the cities and towns along the St. Johns river might not understand promises made over here along the coast, and that might cause the senator a lot of explaining. There is also a possibility, of course, that the senator may have given intimations in other sections of the state with requests that the matter be kept away from the newspapers, fearing misunderstandings in the East Coast country. However, if the senator answers the letter the secretary was instructed at the last meeting of the board to write him, there will be no misunderstandings as to his stand.

Congressman L'Engle's bill to equalize freight rates is the best measure for Florida fruit and vegetable growers yet brought out, and if there is a prospect for it being pushed through congress I'm in favor of sending Claude back with a strong endorsement. The bill, if made into law, means the relief for the produce shippers of this state for which they have been hoping, praying and working for years and would do more to develop this state than any other one thing.

Frank S. Sams spent Monday in Daytona.

Miss Marion Davis of Port Allegany, Pa., and little Miss Helen Bartwell of Buffalo, N. Y., spent some time here this week as the guests of Mrs. A. W. Fielder.

LOCAL D. A. R. CHAPTER ENTERTAINS DAYTONA.

On March 27th a party of ten ladies belonging to the Abigail Bartholomew chapter of the D. A. R. came from Daytona to join in a neighborly celebration of Florida day. They were received by the local chapter at the grounds of the old fort and, after cordial introductions, were conducted to inspect the ruins. The regent of the Victoria chapter, Mrs. Smith, then made a graceful address of welcome and invited the guests to partake of an informal, but bountiful collation, which was spread on tables under the trees at the foot of the hill. In the center of the large table was a bouquet of red, white and blue flowers. The grounds were decorated with flags.

Mrs. Bigelow spoke for her party in expressing their appreciation of the hospitality extended them, and Mrs. Gardiner gave the following pretty toast, which fittingly expressed the sentiment of all who were fortunate enough to be present:

Happy have we met,
Happy have we been,
Happy do we part,
Happy may we meet again.

The afternoon was devoted to a trip to the old Spanish mission, enlivened by tales and recollections of early days, and an examination of historical relics excavated near New Smyrna, which are now on exhibition in the Fidelity bank.

Roll call revealed the fact that six states were represented by Daughters from their chapters, as follows: Mrs. Gardiner, Florida; Miss DeVoy, Mrs. Russell, New York; Mrs. Mahy, Mrs. Martyn, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Bigelow, Michigan; Mrs. Chamberlain, South Dakota; Mrs. Esch, Mrs. Thorpe, Miss Thorpe, Ohio.

Mrs. Donnelly and Mrs. Hay, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. G. W. Crouch, left last week for their home in Listowel, Ontario, Can.

WINTER VISITORS WED AND START FOR NORTH.

Friday evening at Trinity church parsonage Rev. J. J. Treadwell officiated at a wedding ceremony which united George Bronson and Mrs. L. E. Stillman, the wedding being a quiet affair and witnessed by only a few intimate friends.

Both the bride and groom have been winter visitors here, coming to this city from Connecticut, and they left Saturday morning for Meriden, Conn., where they will make their permanent home.

ANCIENT CITY SWEEP BY DISASTROUS BLAZE.

A portion of the business section of the city of St. Augustine was swept by a disastrous fire Wednesday night, the flames doing damage to the amount of several hundred thousands of dollars. Among the buildings burned was the county courthouse, a number of business houses and residences. The blaze started in the Florida House, a tourist hotel, but the origin is unknown. A part of the Jacksonville fire fighting apparatus was rushed to the Ancient City on a special train to help in the work of controlling the flames.

DAYTONA BEACH.

DAYTONA BEACH, April 1.—As the season draws to a close there is the usual rush into social activities, and formal and informal social functions lap each other at a furious rate. Winter residents wish to discharge their social obligations before they flit northward and the year around residents plan for their season functions before everybody leaves, as they express it.

Prominent among the many social functions which marked last week's social calendar was the one given at Pinehurst Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 by Mrs. W. H. Freeman in honor of Miss Weeks of Asheville, N. C., a popular season guest of the house. The delightfully informal program consisted of a game of autoh in which all took part, and amusing exhibition in mind reading by Miss Weeks, piano solos by Mrs. Randall, select readings by Miss Winans. Dainty refreshments were served in which the hostess was assisted by Miss Marguerite Freeman and Miss Margaret Reed.

The sock social Friday evening given at the home of Mrs. Cora Powell on Grandview avenue, was rather uniquely conceived by Mrs. V. V. Blackmere, regular winter tourist. The price of admission was two pennies to the inch of the size of the socks worn. Some contributed rhymes along with their pennies gratis. The house was packed and the informal program consisting of vocal music, Irish melodies and other old familiar songs, readings, exhibition in dancing, etc., all of which went off with spirit and was greatly enjoyed by the company. The officers of the library club, Mesdames Powell, Johnson and Gage, were in the receiving line and assisted Mrs. Blackmere as hostess of the evening. The neat sum of $27 was realized.

Esmeralda at Deland.—The Seabreeze light school play, Esmeralda, which was given at the New Daytona theater about two weeks ago, was staged again Friday night at Deland to a highly appreciative audience. Many in the audience pronounced it the best school entertainment of the kind they had ever attended. J. E. Thompson furnished his car and chauffeur and Mr. Bishop furnished a car, so that the high school and the chaperones incurred no expense in the trip.

Landed a Big Bass.—Mrs. H. T. Phillips of Atlanta, Ga., who is spending the season at the Mayfield, on Saturday afternoon landed a handsome ten-pound bass from the ocean pier. Mrs. Phillips is a great lover of the sport, and sticks to it with a rare fidelity for a woman. Although she has caught more than 300 fish this season, none of the others were too large for her to manage. However, the big fish Saturday afternoon put up a good fight for his life, and might have gotten away but for the timely assistance of Judge Rhodes Thomas of Kentucky, who was fishing near at hand. As it was the fish was duly landed and furnished a fine fish dinner for the guests of the Mayfield, Sunday.

Reception and House Warming.—Among the pleasant social happenings which marked the close of last week was an informal and well attended house warming and reception, given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of Suffield, Conn., whose attractive new winter home has just been completed on Duke street. Some sixty or more guests were present, among whom Mr. and Mrs. King had the pleasure of welcoming their Suffield pastor, Rev. Mr. Kennedy, and wife, who are here for his health and have been spending the winter on Ocean boulevard. Quite a shower of kitchen utensils was precipitated by the more intimate friends of the host and hostess. Punch was served in the dining room, and without previous arrangement an enjoyable program was given of readings, music and dancing, and a laughable kitchen procession in which those who marched were armed with some kitchen utensil with which to make a noise. The evening closed with the company joining in dancing the Vi-

ginia reel. Mr. and Mrs. King, who spent the winter at the Mott house, left Monday for the north for the summer.

Mrs. Lewis, who is located for the season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wells on Earl street, entertained Monday evening at a birthday surprise party for her sister, Mrs. Mead.

Miss S. E. Russell is out at Major Russell's place looking after him and their sister, Mrs. Mary Baker, who is suffering with her back from a severe sprain. One day last week Major Russell fell down the steps at his front porch, and was unable to lift himself. No one was on the place at the time except Mrs. Baker, who was in the kitchen attending to getting dinner and knew nothing of the accident. Luckily T. F. Curtis, Major Russell's son-in-law, driving over from Daytona to see how they were getting along, arrived shortly after the Major fell. Seeing his condition Mr. Curtis called to Mrs. Baker, and it was in her efforts to help lift her brother that she sprained her back. Major Russell seems to have suffered no serious consequences from his fall of which he knows little, and Mrs. Baker is improving.

Mr. Rogers is to have the pavement extended along his front from the corner of Glenview boulevard to join the Congregational church property, which is an improvement especially appreciated by the church-goers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Gilmore have just received the pleasant piece of information from their son, Roger, that he has been promoted to the position of elevator boy in the New American, one of Mr. A. W. Plumb's hotels in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Dusenberry of Rochester, N. Y., have secured rooms at the Abercrombie residence on North Halifax avenue.

Webber and Miss Whiting of Boston, Mass., left Sunday after a week's sojourn with Mrs. Webber and daughter, Miss Webber, who are occupying their winter home on North Peninsula drive. Mr. Webber and party came up from Key West and other points where they have been on a tour through the state.

George Backer is erecting a two-story building in the rear of his residence property on North Peninsula drive. The lower floor will be used as a work shop and laundry and the upper floor as a store room.

A charter party of thirteen from the Glenwood had the jolliest time of the season in a boat trip to the Tomoka last Friday. A generous lunch basket accompanied them, and coffee and bacon were cooked in the open which, with the contents of the basket, made up a most appetizing dinner. The trip was made in the Josephine A.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkrige and daughter, Miss Hawkrige, and niece, Miss Hoff, who have been with Mr. Dean and family in the Bernard cottage, left this week on their return north. Mr. Hawkrige came south for his health and improved greatly at first but has been ill lately.

Mrs. S. R. McConnell arrived last week from Pinehurst, N. C., where she has been spending the winter and joined her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. M. Rogers at their winter home on the corner of North Halifax avenue and Peninsula drive.

Mrs. Robert C. Waterson has a card from Mrs. Florence Johnson, who left here last week for California, dated at New Orleans, in which she stated that the trip over had been very pleasant indeed. Mrs. Johnson was one of the first to join our little Seabreeze community and is one of the staunchest supporters it ever had. While she has left Seabreeze to make her future home in California, her friends cherish a hope that after she has paid her California friends a visit she may decide to return to sunny Florida and City Beautiful.

A winter resident who has a number of handsome orange trees wishes to call the attention of those interested in the fact that the white fly is abroad again. He further advises them to see to it that their trees are properly sprayed after the fruit is set if they expect to save the beauty of the foliage as well as the fruit.

Palm Sunday will be observed next Sabbath at the Peninsula churches with appropriate services.

The alligator that was found in the hole at Norwood is now caged in the rear of the Inn. J. W. Rusk, with the help of the Legg boys, caught him, and after a hard fight snaked him out and put him in a cage that had been made for his captivity. He measures five feet six inches and is some fighter. He is having visitors plenty, as everybody that visits Allandale goes in to see him. Besides the big one there are nine small ones that are also to be seen at the Inn.

A very pleasant trip was made over to Deland on Saturday by a party made up to Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. Needham, Mrs. C. Thomas of Port Orange and Mrs. W. B. Voorhes and the Rikemans from Al. The day was spent sightseeing land and a visit to DeLeon. Work along the river is progressing finely; also on the division, Norwood. THE Metropolitan Museum of Art is the greatest treasure house in the western world. If it were not such an orderly establishment it might be compared to an Aladdin's cave, magnified a thousand times, for on its walls, in its cabinets and in its fireproof, burglar-proof storage vaults are art objects worth $150,000,000, exclusive of its financial resources of upward of $10,000,000. It holds individual works of art that are the finest things of their kind in the world, it has collections that have no peers in the great galleries of Europe. It is only 42 years since it was organized, and in that half the span of its history, president's life it has grown from an idea to the greatest marvel in the history of art museums in the world. And it never has been able to exhibit anything like all the art objects in its possession.

Long Called an Art Pirate.

It is only for the reason that it is such a polite institution that one refrains from calling the museum a kind of gorgeous pirate's lair, filled with such treasures, magnified a thousandfold, as the Kidds and Morgans of the Spanish Main were wont to gather in as loot from the galleons and cities they sacked.

Indeed, ever since the Metropolitan museum trustees made their second purchase of a collection as a whole in 1872, when they took the Caelonia antiques away from the British museum, our greatest art institution has been looked upon in Europe as an art pirate ranging the seas of that particular world and picking up every available treasure that showed its sail above the horizon. What Disraeli could not induce the British nation to do—to keep the Colonna Madonna through its purchase—J. Pierpont Morgan was able to accomplish and bring it to New York. The museum, however, is the most honest pirate's lair that ever was.

When the museum was first organized, in 1871, the officers and trustees started out to raise $250,000, and the first collection they bought was one of 175 paintings of European schools, for which they paid $118,180.37. At the present time there are two single objects in the museum that cost $500,000 each, and the institution has only recently been presented with the Benjamin Altman collection of 75 paintings that are valued at $15,000,000.

That comparison serves to indicate the spirit with which the museum is regarded nowadays as compared to the era of its beginning, when its first important acquisition—the Caelonia collection of Cypriote antiques—caused the most acrimonious art battle that this country ever has known, and when the museum seemed to have more enemies than friends. Now it seems to have nothing but friends, whose liberality surpasses that of any of the great prodigals of history or fiction.

The leader of these friends of the museum is the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who still lives within the walls of the building in spirit and whose benevolence in the form of gifts, loans and influence are as vital today as they were before his death. There is scarcely a gallery in the whole of the many-chambered structure that does not bear evidence of his generosity and his catholicity of taste.

From the entrance hall, with its Don Quixote tapestries that are reputed to have cost the late financier $244,000, through the classical, Egyptian, Decorative Art, Painting and sculpture and Ceramic departments—everywhere one sees the name of J. Pierpont Morgan affixed to object after object either as a donor or a lender of all these precious things. And in the storage vaults of the museum there is hanged case after case, containing all of his Egyptian treasures save the 30 paintings now on view, that are to be shown next January in the new north wing that is to be devoted to exhibiting these Morgan treasures and nothing else.

Many Priceless Loans.

In itself this collection that is yet to be seen is the greatest group of art objects ever brought together by one man in the world. Its estimated value of $75,000,000 does not include many things that Mr. Morgan had loaned or given to the museum before his death. Chief of these is the Garland Morgan collection of Chinese porcelains that has no peer anywhere in the world. Mr. Morgan paid $750,000 for the Garland collection alone, and to this he added pieces after pieces (one Hawthorne vase cost $90,000) from his private collection, until today the objects in that one room are worth at least $1,500,000. Then there is the Mazarin tapestry, "The Kingdom of Heaven," for which Mr. Morgan is reported to have paid $500,000 and which is regarded by all authorities on textiles as the finest piece of tapestry in the world. The Hoenschel collection of Gothic and French Renaissance furniture and decorations cost $1,250,000, and of these he presented the Gothic portion outright to the museum.

Although it is not so showy as some of the collections of paintings, this department of the museum is its greatest single feature from the viewpoint of educational value. In the place where the Mazarin tapestry and the Hoenschel collection are shown—together with the Morgan Merovingian collection from the seventh century—is the splendid gift of Mrs. Russell Sage, the famous Bolles collection of Colonial furniture, comprising 240 pieces for which Mrs. Sage is reported to have paid $100,000. This wing of Decorative Arts also shelters some early Gothic sculptures and wood carvings, loaned by Mr. Morgan in the past, that are among its chief treasures.

Though we speak of monetary value of these collections and objects in definite terms, they are the valuations placed on them at the time they were presented to the museum or acquired by it through purchase. Consequently these figures give little idea of the present value of the collections, owing to the fact that within the last quarter of a century the intrinsic value of all art objects has advanced in an extraordinary way.

No Hitch in the Program.

A characteristic story of the late Joseph Pulitzer about himself was one relating to an occurrence which took place after he had become editor and part proprietor of the Westliche Post. He had given great offense to a certain Judge in St. Louis and the latter declared one day from the bench that before the sun set he would seek out Pulitzer and shoot him down like a dog. If my memory serves me, Mr. Pulitzer was in court when this threat was made—in any case it came to his ears—and he immediately issued an "extra" announcing the proposed assassination and stating that he would remain in his office until the setting of the sun in order that no hitch might occur in the program. "Captain Charlie"

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press

To begin at the beginning, Charles F. Thorpe was the son of an innkeeper near Cheltenham, England, and at the age of eighteen had the reputation of being a roysterer. He did not drink or gamble, and no one could say that he was dishonest or unfaithful, but he craved adventure and was constantly in trouble.

He accidentally shot a gamekeeper and was sent to the penal colony at Botany Bay, Australia. He escaped from there and became a bushranger. I was herding sheep on the Bogan river when one evening young Thorpe walked in on me. He was in good health full of good nature, and his convict life had not hardened his heart.

Young Thorpe had no sooner taken to the bush than he was given the title of "Captain Charlie." For the first seven or eight months he had no companions. During this time all his work was on the highway. He held up several stages and half a hundred lone travelers and on three occasions shot men from their saddles. He had the reputation of being brave to recklessness and of being a "square man." He would not rob a poor man nor would he shoot unless fired upon first. If he stopped a stage and there were women passengers he treated them with the utmost courtesy. He would take nothing from a settler without paying for it, and now and then he gave them warning that the natives were out on a raid and gave them time to prepare for defense.

He would probably have continued to work alone had it not been for an escaped convict named Treat. This man was thoroughly vicious and had not one redeeming trait. In escaping from the penal settlement he killed two of the guards and he was no sooner in the bush than he gathered around him five or six other hard cases, and began a merciless war on all outsiders.

In three months they killed eight travelers, settlers and herders, and not content with highway robbery, they looted stores, taverns and farmhouses and applied the torch in sheer wantonness. Looking upon "Captain Charlie" as a namby pamby fellow, who was unworthy of being called a bushranger they sought to hunt him down. In self defense he organized a band of his own, numbering five, and, though they were pretty tough fellows, he held them well in hand and would permit no violence when it could be avoided. The first meeting between the two bands took place on my range.

Treat had somehow heard that I was friendly to "Captain Charlie." He made a night ride of thirty-five miles with his band to kill me and destroy the herd. The captain heard of his intentions and just at sunrise one morning both bands rode out of the scrub within fifty rods of my hut. A fight took place at once and within ten minutes Treat's band was driven off with the loss of three men. "Captain Charlie" had one man killed and two wounded.

An adventure much talked of through New South Wales was the "baiting up" of sixteen mounted police, who had followed "Captain Charlie" and three of his men into the hills. Worn out with thirty hours of hard riding, the entire band fell asleep at night in their camp. The bushrangers crept in on them and ran off their horses and removed every firearm and then vanished. Every one could have been killed while he slept, but no one was harmed.

On another occasion "Captain Charlie" learned that two bushrangers who had lately set up in business in his territory had made prisoners of three men and their wives who were traveling by stage, and were holding them in the hills for ransom. He made a ride of forty miles with his men, tramped through the hills for two days and finally found the captives. As the bushrangers refused to give them up without ransom, the captain paid over to them the sum of $2,000 in gold and escorted the grateful people to the nearest farmhouse. He then returned and warned the two trespassers to leave his territory, and while making their way north they were captured by the police.

In only one instance did the chivalry of the bush betray a spirit of revenge. A settler whom he had several times befriended put the police on his track, and in escaping pursuit he rode his favorite horse to death. Later on he was captured by a betrayer on the highway and tied him to a tree and gave him a terrible whipping.

For a period of two years and a half "Captain Charlie" held full sway in the district, hotly pursued most of the time, but always escaping, but at last his time came, as it came to all others of his ilk. There was a quarrel in his band, and it divided. He came to my hut with a companion one night at midnight, and after I had prepared them a meal they lay down and slept till daylight. Meanwhile the men who had broken away got word to the police, and at daylight the bluecoats were in ambush around the hut. As the two men stepped out they were shot down in their tracks, and both were dead when the officers got them. Somewhere among the hills "Captain Charlie" had planted plunder, believed to amount to $50,000; but, though it has been searched for by scores of men for the last thirty-five years, it has never been found.

river to the borders of the new town and built substantial docks and a commodious pavilion, where one may rest and read or fish as the heart desires.

The next step was to install a system of water works which was done in a very short time. In the pumping station was installed two 1500-gallon tanks into which the water is pumped by a gasoline engine. In these tanks there is an air pressure of from 60 to 65 pounds all the time, which forces the water into all of the cottages. At this time more than one and a half miles of water pipe have been laid, extending from one end of the town to the other and supplying every house with an abundance of water for all purposes.

The first season saw the completion of 10 houses in all, including the pretty home which Mr. Wilbur built for himself and which he and his family have occupied the present season. Among the other improvements of the first season we note the building and shelling of streets, an approach to the ocean beach, a tennis court, croquet grounds and sundry other things to make the place both beautiful and attractive.

After an absence of nine months Mr. Wilbur returned, arriving again in Christmas week and bringing with him the same force of men and horses to continue the work which he had undertaken just a year previous; and now at the expiration of another three months on the eve of his departure for the north, he leaves the town more than doubled in size and beauty. The town now boasts of nearly two miles of shelled and graded streets.

Being curious to know what it was that attracted Mr. Wilbur to this particular place on the peninsula, we made bold to ask him to give us his reasons, and his answer was: "The ocean, the river and these large mounds of shells," and then added: "I wanted to see what I could do with this combination." In answer to the question: "What are your plans for the future?" Mr. Wilbur replied: "I really have no fixed plans for the future. In the first place I did not come here to build a town, but a winter home; I have made no special effort to sell lots, but have sold only to those who, coming here, have been attracted by the place and wanted to buy and build homes here."

Mr. Wilbur furthermore assured us that he had been quite careful as to just who bought and settled in the new town as he was particular to have there only the best class of people. On pressing the question as to the future, Mr. Wilbur freely admitted that, in spite of his original plans, it seemed now to him that the town would grow to much larger proportions than he had at first anticipated and that if all circumstances combined to so order, he would do all within his power to help in its success.

The location of the town is at the narrowest point on the peninsula, which is only 300 feet wide at this point, and it is about two miles south of Port Orange bridge and seven miles south of Daytona. It has been agreed between Mr. Wilbur and those who have bought property there that he shall have installed by another season an electric lighting plant, which will complete a full list of all modern conveniences.

With the present development of Wilbur-by-the-Sea, and the new town of Allandale on the opposite side of the river; with the coming this summer of the electric railway from Daytona, it is a question of only a very few years until a new bridge will span the Halifax between the two places and the electric cars will cross the river to Wilbur and return to Daytona by way of the peninsula, possibly within less than two years.

Work for the present season at Wilbur-by-the-Sea will close down on Saturday night and all of Mr. Wilbur's immediate party will at once leave for Boston, with the exception of Contractor Eaton, who remains to build a home for himself and possibly one other home.

Bishop Leete, of Atlanta, Ga., who bought one of the most desirable lots in the place, will have a pretty home erected in time to be occupied during cottage built by John H. Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker, of Framingham Center, Mass., who bought recently, will also build a nice home in the early fall and it is quite probable that several other cottages will be erected in time to be occupied during the next winter.

Mr. Wilbur says he is leaving at this time, regretting that he can not stay longer, and will look forward with great anticipation of pleasure to the time when he can return and join the pleasant company of friends who have cast their lots with him in the new town of Wilbur-by-the-Sea.

Permanent Polish for Stoves.

Instead of soiling the hands with ordinary blacking there are several kinds of improved polishes on the market which are to be applied with a paint brush and which keep attractive for a couple of weeks. This polish also comes for the nickel part of the stove.

are rightly named, because the absence of light is synonymous with ignorance and superstition.

During that black period in the world's history man was fighting his way blindly towards enlightenment and modern civilization; for civilization and light have always gone hand in hand.

Today a telephone call will bring into your home the benefit of modern and efficient electric lighting service. The Number is 102.

DAYTONA TO HAVE CONCLAVE IN 1915.

At the 20th annual conclave of the Knights Templar held in Gainesville last week, Daytona was decided upon as the place to hold the annual meeting in 1915. The date will be the second Tuesday in April, which time should help to prolong the season of 1914-1915.

Danger in "Scorching."

An eminent doctor says he has found a cyclist's pulse to beat as high as 250 times a minute immediately after making a fast mile. This illustrates the danger of "scorching."

one of the most dangerous of all diseases is scorching. It is a disease of the blood and is caused by the use of stimulants. It is a disease of the blood and is caused by the use of stimulants. It is a disease of the blood and is caused by the use of stimulants.

A Horse's Toenails.

Few persons realize that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does. The hoof grows more rapidly in unshod horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on an average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month. Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months. As the new horn grows out any cracks or defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the root to the tip.

Proud of Him.

Sandy McPherson started to build a small outhouse of bricks. After the usual fashion of bricklayers, he worked from the inside, and, having the material close beside him, the walls were rising fast when dinner time arrived and with it his son Jock, who brought his father's dinner.

With honest pride in his eye Sandy looked at Jock over the wall on which he was engaged and asked:

"How d'ye think I'm gettin' on, Jock, man?"

"Famous, feythur. But hoo dae ye get oot? You've forgot the door!"

One glance around him showed Sandy that his son was right; but, looking kindly at him, he said:

"Man, Jock, you've got a gran' belid on ye! Ye'll be an architect yet, as sure's yer feythur's a builder."

FEDERAL MIGRATORY BIRD PROTECTION

NEW FEDERAL LAWS PROTECTING MIGRATORY BIRDS WILL BE ENFORCED TO FULLEST EXTENT.

Editor New Smyrna News:

With the slaughter of game birds, laws have become more strict, different states have gradually adopted laws for protecting birds and now the government, through the Department of Agriculture is most active in this direction.

The man who hunts must take out a license, the boy who hunts without one is a law breaker, and the man who hunts without one is more than a law breaker. The United States government is now taking a hand in the protection of birds through the migratory bird law. The chief game warden of the United States, Col. J. H. Acklen, is authority for the statement that the law will be enforced to its fullest extent.

The destruction of birds has become a national peril. The Department of Agriculture has found insects steadily on the increase because of the killing of all kinds of insectivorous birds. The government does not protect the English sparrow, the crow or chicken hawk.

In several states hunting is permitted in the spring season. As the birds fly northward these states permit them to be killed. The department has intervened and now forbids a continuance of this spring shooting which has been done as the nesting season was beginning.

Speaking of the new federal law, Col. Acklen says: "That the law meets a long felt want, of uniformity in protecting the migratory birds, must be admitted by all who have given the subject serious thought. This is an age of progress and advanced ideas and the migratory bird law is the most progressive measure in game and insectivorous bird protection ever enacted in this country. Under it many ineffective methods in various states will be corrected."

Government protection is effective, and the man who would defy a local warden will think twice before opposing authority vested in a federal official. One great destroyer of game is the market hunter. He spares nothing that commands a market and I have come to the conclusion that the only way to be rid of him is to absolutely prohibit the sale of game, and only then will he quit the business. The spirit of conservation is rapidly growing. The strong arm of the federal government which is far more potent in effect than the entire body of any state is embodied in the migratory bird law.

"In permitting the shooting of owls, woodpeckers, robins and meadow larks, the farmer, gardener and fruit grower is destroying workers who willingly toil for him more than eight hours daily. Instead of destroying these faithful servants, who do so much to eliminate field rodents and insects of all kinds, the farmer should protect and encourage the services."

"The department of agriculture says that the annual loss to crops in this country from worms and insects is now nearly one hundred million dollars. Birds are the principal protection against these pests and in killing the birds the farmer is only helping to make his loss the greater."

Need Fear No Enemy.

The gigantic devilfish of southern waters, which will grow to 20 feet in width, bears but a single young one at a birth, the mother retaining it inside her body until it has grown to be four feet broad. The youthful devil fish coming into the world so big is in but little danger of an enemy.

Big Demand for Goat Skins.

Seventy-five countries sent goat skins to the United States last year, India being the largest single source of supply. The demand for such skins has increased greatly in recent years, owing to the needs of the shoe trade, and all grand divisions of the earth are called upon to stock the American market.

FANS SEE TWO REAL KNOCKOUTS

SAILOR LISLE IS THE GOODS

PRELIMINARY BOUT IS A GOOD ONE AND FANS WERE SATISFIED WITH THE EVENING'S CARD.

(From The Daytona Gazette-News)

The second boxing card staged at the New Daytona theatre Friday night was a success, and the fight fans could not complain about their money's worth. Two knock-outs in one evening is a pretty good show, and the second event was bloody enough to please the most particular.

Had Friday evening's bout been the first staged, the theatre would not have held the crowds for the second affair last evening, but there were many who attended the first imitation fight who were afraid of being stung. Not so with the big affair. Sailor Lisle showed what he can do, and it did not take him long to display a good knowledge of the many art of self-defense, and the technical ability to deliver a punch that was so swift the fans could only hear the impact.

In the preliminary event two colored youths put up a good fighting exhibition. The black who lost showed a nerve against certain odds, and after being floored in the fourth round nearly for the count came back strong and got in some good licks before he was put down and out for keeps in the fifth, without a drop of blood being spilt. The yellow, the pride of the San Juan garage, had a punch, was aggressive, and both acted like fighters. They did not stall for wind breaks, or anything else. They fought, and were up and at it like two cats at the tap of the gong. The five rounds they waded through were pleasant for the lack of loving clinching that was so much in evidence at the last "principal" bout a couple of weeks ago. The knockout came in the fifth round after a rap in the jaw, and it was some minutes after the defeated black had been carried bodily from the stage before he came back to life.

Then came the big noise. Sailor Lisle, and Kid Sherwood, the former in past of the United States navy, and the latter of New Haven, Ct. Whoever told him he had a living chance in the ring with Lisle or anybody else who has fought here this year ought to be turned over to the humane society. He was built as much like a fighter as a piece of macaroni. But he was game, for which he was rewarded with a bloody head, puffed face, collection of bumps, and the forfeiture of a few teeth. There was a dentist and couple of undertakers present, so it was all O. K. Lisle showed the goods, and showed in the first round that he could deliver.

Therefore, after the first round, he was told by Referee Hurd to not stall or delay matters but put the one who called himself "Kid" Sherwood out as soon as possible. He did. Sherwood's head and neck were already one mass of blood and at the start of the second round Lisle gave him an awful punishing, and delivered the knockout before the round was half over to the complete satisfaction of the house. Sherwood was prone on the stage like a dead one for many minutes while the crowd surged around and viewed the remains. Finally, with the aid of a dentist, Sailor Lisle and a few dozen suggestions the "Kid" was gotten to the dressing room and made presentable. Lisle gained many friends, and by the rapid fighting and genuine punches gained admirers and dispelled all allusions of any possible frame-up, even if the two boys do both live in Port Orange. Koert DuBols headed the Port Orange delegation.

The vanquished one may be from New Haven, his name may be Sherwood, and he, no doubt, is some "kid," but he is not the Kid Sherwood a dyed-in-the-wool New Haven fan knows. Not by a long shot.

The only dope ahead is that the victorious yellow from the San Juan has been challenged. The preliminaries have been a success.

Word has been received here that Mona Brazean of Elmira, N. Y., was married last week.

Messrs. Wood, Copeland and Barker spent Sunday at Coronado, where they go for their annual bath in the surf.

Our second and third grade baseball nine went to Deland to play ball Saturday. They came back rather crestfallen.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingner have returned to their home in Bloomington, Ill. after a pleasant winter spent in Arthur Pelton's house.

The Civic league entertained the ladies last Thursday evening. Punch and cake were served after a very entertaining program.

Mr. Witly, formerly of Orlando, has bought two lots in town and ten acres for grove, five acres from Mrs. Newton and five from Ed Brown.

The colored children repeated their entertainment of Tom Thumbs wedding at the camp and took in $18 for their efforts. They are well trained.

The Civic league meets Tuesday instead of Thursday next week and a fine musical program has been arranged. There should be a large attendance.

John Copeland, Mack Barker, Leona Wright and Irene Parker motored to Enterprise and Greep Spring Monday and spent the day on a picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland and son John motored to Daytona, Ormond and Port Orange last week. They are delighted with Florida especially Lake Helen.

The strawberries are plentiful now and much cheaper in price. The fresh vegetables are coming in fast. Spring is here in full bloom. North erners make a mistake by going away at this time, when they could enjoy life to the limit. Did the orange blossoms ever smell sweeter or the mocking birds ever sing better than this year? It is life to breathe in this delightful air while basking in the lovely sunshine.

Hawks Park

Wednesday evening, April 8th after the regular meeting of the V. I. A., H. I. Hamilton will deliver a lecture in the Hawks Park library building on his travels in Mexico, treating largely of personal experience and of that class of people and that section of the country of which the histories and geographies say little or nothing.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Stephan of Colorado on board their palatial yacht Lotterer II, put in at the Park to see their numerous friends and they were pleased to see the many improvements made recently. They think the new hall is a very fine building for such a small place. Thursday they took a party picnicking to Turtle Mound, Miss Gilson and Miss Merriell Willcutt being guests of honor. All had a very enjoyable day and came back tired but happy.

Dr. and Mrs. Davis Forster gave an elaborate party Tuesday night. Cards were played in the early part of the evening, then delightful refreshments were served, consisting of Turkish Delight, lunch, many varieties of cake and delicious ice cream. Shaw, Miss Merriell Willcutt, Misses McGonigal, McGregor, and Silsby, who, with many others, made the evening pass very pleasantly.

BUILDING NEW ROAD TO THE EAST COAST.

An Orlando-Indian river highway will be completed within the next six months, the co-operation of Orange, Seminole, Volusia and Brevard counties, the Geneva board of trade and a colony concern, the Southern Farms & Fruit company, being assured. The road will cross the St. Johns river about one mile above Lake Harney though it is not expected that a bridge will be built this year. The road will be from Orlando through Geneva and through Volusia county due east through Brevard county to Mims, where it will connect with the through national highway along the East Coast. The work in Seminole county will be paid for by the board of trade, the county agreeing to maintain; in Volusia and Brevard counties the bulk of the work will be paid for by the land company above mentioned. Eight miles of the road have already been constructed.—Orlando Sentinel.

Chinese Memorial Arches. The p'ai-lou, or memorial arches of China, says Frederick McCormick, in the National Geographic Magazine, rival the pagodas in grace, beauty and numbers. Many of them are erected to commemorate the devotion of virtuous widows who refuse to remarry. The latest example, which never changes its name, is prominent in the decoration of these arches.

WANTS ST. JOHNS AND NORTH INDIAN CONNECTED.

The question of transportation rates and lines is an ever present and increasingly important one. The Florida trucker can, by his own efforts protect himself from loss by the few frosts which get after him, and has a fighting chance, fully as great as his northern conferees against plant disease and insects, but when it comes to transportation problems he is sadly deficient in urging his best interests.

The action of Senator Fletcher in asking for a commission of congress to investigate the question of the taking over by the government of the East Coast inland waterway is a move in the right direction.

In this connection our suggestion of the opening of a waterway from Sanford to Fellsmere via the St. Johns river, and from Fellsmere into the Indian river through Fellsmere's great drainage ditch is worthy of serious consideration. The fact that there is an engineering problem involved in this route is no deterrent. The solution of such problems is what engineers are for.

One thing which has undoubtedly delayed the development of Florida's waterways is the failure of her citizens to utilize these avenues of communication to an extent which would make the demand for an enlargement insistent. Along the East Coast are numerous cities and towns which might utilize such waterways as the rivers and canals up to Jacksonville afford, to great advantage. A large proportion of the goods brought here could be brought to their harbors at a greatly reduced cost, which should mean a reduction to the consumer. There is channel enough on this route to permit of the operating of a large number of shallow draft boats in this trade.

Meanwhile the present railroad and express rates are rapidly making converts of the vast majority of Florida voters to the idea of government ownership of railroads.—Fellsmere Tribune.

Bill of Rights.

The bill of rights is a declaration of fundamental principles deemed basic to the Constitution itself and borrowed from the English bill of rights of 1689. When the Constitution of the United States was framed and submitted to the people it did not have a bill of rights and it was so harshly criticized on this account that its friends promised to incorporate or add such a declaration, and the first ten amendments to the Constitution, made after the main instrument was adopted, were in fulfillment of this promise. All the State Constitutions now have bills of rights, practically identical with one another.

Dodging Promotion.

There is a chafing-dish period for every college girl; but when the time comes for the promotion to the higher position hard by a grand square cooking stove, most of the graduates prefer to toot the alarm whistle on a limousine.—Dallas News.

Education.

Education is the whole effect of environment. The individual is in some way affected by everything with which he comes in contact, from the first moment of life until the end. Teaching is therefore a factor in evolution. It is a means of carrying on the development of the individual. Man is as yet incomplete, it is likely that all his best exercises still lie before him. He must be ready for what is to come.

They're Called "Help" by Courtesy. "This is a large house you have," said Mrs. Foszelle to Mrs. Pusuzzina. "Do you have to keep much help?" "I keep two," cooed Mrs. Pusuzzina, "but they're not much help."

William Lourcey finished his school work at Stetson university last week and went to St. Augustine to again take up his work in the Kewatin school. He will go north to Wisconsin with the Kewatin students this summer.

Mrs. W. B. Eckler and Mrs. E. E. Ireland will act as hostesses at the silver tea to be given in the Woman's club room next Saturday afternoon. A pleasing musical program has been prepared for the afternoon and a large attendance is expected.

The Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. R. S. Sheldon. There was a good attendance and a pleasant afternoon was spent. Refreshments of fruit punch and cake were served after the ladies had been treated to an April fool surprise in the refreshments.

Just why the senator should not want the public to thoroughly understand his position on this canal proposition was not made entirely clear, but there is a possibility, of course, that the people in the cities and towns along the St. Johns river might not understand promises made over here along the coast, and that might cause the senator a lot of explaining. There is also a possibility, of course, that the senator may have given intimations in other sections of the state with requests that the matter be kept away from the newspapers, fearing misunderstandings in the East Coast country. However, if the senator answers the letter the secretary was instructed at the last meeting of the board to write him, there will be no misunderstandings as to his stand.

Congressman L'Engle's bill to equalize freight rates is the best measure for Florida fruit and vegetable growers yet brought out, and if there is a prospect for it being pushed through congress I'm in favor of sending Claude back with a strong endorsement. The bill, if made into law, means the relief for the produce shippers of this state for which they have been hoping, praying and working for years and would do more to develop this state than any other one thing.

Frank S. Sams spent Monday in Daytona.

Miss Marion Davis of Port Allegany, Pa., and little Miss Helen Bartwell of Buffalo, N. Y., spent some time here this week as the guests of Mrs. A. W. Fielder.

LOCAL D. A. R. CHAPTER ENTERTAINS DAYTONA.

On March 27th a party of ten ladies belonging to the Abigail Bartholomew chapter of the D. A. R. came from Daytona to join in a neighborly celebration of Florida day. They were received by the local chapter at the grounds of the old fort and, after cordial introductions, were conducted to inspect the ruins. The regent of the Victoria chapter, Mrs. Smith, then made a graceful address of welcome and invited the guests to partake of an informal, but bountiful collation, which was spread on tables under the trees at the foot of the hill. In the center of the large table was a bouquet of red, white and blue flowers. The grounds were decorated with flags.

Mrs. Bigelow spoke for her party in expressing their appreciation of the hospitality extended them, and Mrs. Gardiner gave the following pretty toast, which fittingly expressed the sentiment of all who were fortunate enough to be present:

Happy have we met,
Happy have we been,
Happy do we part,
Happy may we meet again.

The afternoon was devoted to a trip to the old Spanish mission, enlivened by tales and recollections of early days, and an examination of historical relics excavated near New Smyrna, which are now on exhibition in the Fidelity bank.

Roll call revealed the fact that six states were represented by Daughters from their chapters, as follows: Mrs. Gardiner, Florida; Miss DeVoy, Miss Russell, New York; Mrs. Mailey, Miss Martyn, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Bigelow, Michigan; Mrs. Chamberlain, South Dakota; Mrs. Esch, Mrs. Thorpe, Miss Thorpe, Ohio.

Mrs. Donnelly and Mrs. Hay, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. G. W. Crouch, left last week for their home in Listowel, Ontario, Canada.

WINTER VISITORS WED AND START FOR NORTH.

Friday evening at Trinity church parsonage Rev. J. J. Treadwell officiated at a wedding ceremony which united George Bronson and Mrs. L. E. Stillman, the wedding being a quiet affair and witnessed by only a few intimate friends.

Both the bride and groom have been winter visitors here, coming to this city from Connecticut, and they left Saturday morning for Meriden, Conn., where they will make their permanent home.

ANCIENT CITY SWEEP BY DISASTROUS BLAZE.

A portion of the business section of the city of St. Augustine was swept by a disastrous fire Wednesday night, the flames doing damage to the amount of several hundred thousands of dollars. Among the buildings burned was the county courthouse, a number of business houses and residences. The blaze started in the Florida House, a tourist hotel, but the origin is unknown. A part of the Jacksonville fire fighting apparatus was rushed to the Ancient City on a special train to help in the work of controlling the flames.

Regular meeting of the board of trade in the News office tonight.

PULPIT TOPICS

To Organize Epworth League—

The Philathea and Baraca classes of Trinity Sunday school on next Sunday evening at 6.45 o'clock will organize an Epworth league. New Smyrna has long needed an efficient young people's society and these young ladies and gentlemen, numbering more than 50, will furnish this long needed opportunity for training in Christian work. Every young person between the ages of 15 and 30 having no other church engagement at that hour should be present and join. Mrs. C. D. Vansaman, who has for many years made a specialty of league work, has been invited to come to New Smyrna and address the young people at that time. Older people are invited to be present.

J. J. TREADWELL, Pastor.

Reception for Trinity Choir—

Members of the Trinity church choir were given a reception by the Ladies Aid society of that church in the church parlors last Thursday evening, the reception being attended by a large number of the members of the church and congregation and friends of the choir members. Those in the receiving line for the reception were the Misses Galbreath, Schaeffer and Booth; Mesdames Vrooman, Pennington, Herrick and Ashton; Messrs. Ashton, Herrick and Vrooman. For the occasion the rooms were prettily decorated with smilax, peas, ferns and cut flowers. An impromptu program was rendered for the entertainment of those in attendance and many of the old familiar songs were sung by all. Delicious refreshments were served.

Everybody is cordially invited to hear him. There will be a sacred concert Easter evening. This will take the place of the regular preaching service. The program will be announced next week.

J. Q. WELLS, Pastor.

The Sunday school grows larger and larger each week in enthusiasm under the able direction of E. L. Greer, superintendent.

It is expected to reach every unplaced child in New Smyrna. Miss Ruby Thorpe and Master Lester Robinson will sing in Sunday school and the "whistling chorus" will be worth hearing. The church services will be unusually interesting. Palm Sunday will be observed, the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered, and members will be received into the church. Mrs. S. B. Short of Michigan, who has been spending the winter at Coronado, will sing at the morning service. Mrs. Short has a rich contralto voice that is pleasing to hear. Members who expect to unite with the church by letter are requested to telephone the pastor before Sunday if possible. The public will be welcomed.

J. J. TREADWELL, Pastor.

DAYTONA BEACH.

DAYTONA BEACH, April 1.—As the season draws to a close there is the usual rush into social activities, and formal and informal social functions lap each other at a furious rate. Winter residents wish to discharge their social obligations before they flit northward and the year around residents plan for their season functions before everybody leaves, as they express it.

Prominent among the many social functions which marked last week's social calendar was the one given at Pinehurst Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 by Mrs. W. H. Freeman in honor of Miss Weeks of Asheville, N. C., a popular season guest of the house. The delightfully informal program consisted of a game of authors in which all took part, and amusing exhibition in mind reading by Miss Weeks, piano solos by Mrs. Randall, select readings by Miss Winans. Dainty refreshments were served in which the hostess was assisted by Miss Marguerite Freeman and Miss Margaret Reed.

The sock social Friday evening given at the home of Mrs. Cora Powell on Grandview avenue, was rather uniquely conceived by Mrs. V. V. Blackmere, regular winter tourist. The price of admission was two pennies to the inch of the size of the socks worn. Some contributed rhymes along with their pennies gratis. The house was packed and the informal program consisting of vocal music, Irish melodies and other old familiar songs, readings, exhibition in dancing, etc., all of which went off with spirit and was greatly enjoyed by the company. The officers of the library club, Mesdames Powell, Johnson and Gage, were in the receiving line and assisted Mrs. Blackmere as hostess of the evening. The neat sum of $27 was realized.

Burgman, real estate man, closed a deal for the sale of 14 lots in the Sonntag Investment company's holdings to Mrs. Virginia Langworthy, who purchased the property as an investment. The property is located in North Seabreeze on Jessamine boulevard, between Grandview and Wild Olive avenues and is part of the Wilman-Post estate. The lot numbers are: 1, 2, 3, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, block 33, and lots 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, block 42.

Emeralda at DeLand.—The Seabreeze high school play, Esmeralda, which was given at the New Daytona theater about two weeks ago, was staged again Friday night at DeLand to a highly appreciative audience. Many in the audience pronounced it the best school entertainment of the kind they had ever attended. J. E. Thompson furnished his car and chauffeur and Mr. Bishop furnished a car, so that the high school and the chaperones incurred no expense in the trip.

Landed a Big Bass.—Mrs. H. T. Phillips of Atlanta, Ga., who is spending the season at the Mayfield, on Saturday afternoon landed a handsome ten-pound bass from the ocean pier. Mrs. Phillips is a great lover of the sport, and sticks to it with a rare fidelity for a woman. Although she has caught more than 300 fish this season, none of the others were too large for her to manage. However, the big fish Saturday afternoon put up a good fight for his life, and might have gotten away but for the timely assistance of Judge Rhodes Thomas of Kentucky, who was fishing near at hand. As it was the fish was duly landed and furnished a fine fish dinner for the guests of the Mayfield, Sunday.

Reception and House Warming.—Among the pleasant social happenings which marked the close of last week was an informal and well attended house warming and reception, given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of Suffield, Conn., whose attractive new winter home has just been completed on Duke street. Some sixty or more guests were present among whom Mr. and Mrs. King had the pleasure of welcoming their Suffield pastor, Rev. Mr. Kennedy, and wife, who are here for his health and have been spending the winter on Ocean boulevard. Quite a shower of kitchen utensils was precipitated by the more intimate friends of the host and hostess. Punch was served in the dining room, and without previous arrangement an enjoyable program was given of readings, music and dancing, and a laughable kitchen procession in which those who marched were armed with some kitchen utensil with which to make a noise. The evening closed with the company joining in dancing the Virginia reel. Mr. and Mrs. King, who spent the winter at the Mott house, left Monday for the north for the summer.

Miss S. E. Russell is out at Major Russell's place looking after him and their sister, Mrs. Mary Baker, who is suffering with her back from a severe sprain. One day last week Major Russell fell down the steps at his front porch, and was unable to lift himself. No one was on the place at the time except Mrs. Baker, who was in the kitchen attending to getting dinner and knew nothing of the accident. Luckily T. F. Curtis, Major Russell's son-in-law, driving over from Daytona to see how they were getting along, arrived shortly after the Major fell. Seeing his condition Mr. Curtis called to Mrs. Baker, and it was in her efforts to help lift her brother that she sprained her back. Major Russell seems to have suffered no serious consequences from his fall of which he knows little, and Mrs. Baker is improving.

Mr. Rogers is to have the pavement extended along his front from the corner of Glenview boulevard to join the Congregational church property, which is an improvement especially appreciated by the church-goers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Gilmore have just received the pleasant piece of information from their son, Roger, that he has been promoted to the position of elevator boy in the New American, one of Mr. A. W. Plumb's hotels in Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Dusenberry of Rochester, N. Y., have secured rooms at the Abercrombie residence on North Halifax avenue.

Webber and Miss Whiting of Boston, Mass., left Sunday after a week's sojourn with Mrs. Webber and daughter, Miss Webber, who are occupying their winter home on North Peninsula drive. George Backer is erecting a two-story building in the rear of his residence property on North Peninsula drive. The lower floor will be used as a work shop and laundry and the upper floor as a store room.

A charter party of thirteen from the Glenwood had the jolliest time of the season in a boat trip to the Tomoka last Friday. A generous lunch basket accompanied them, and coffee and bacon were cooked in the open which, with the contents of the basket, made up a most appetizing dinner. The trip was made in the Josephine A.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkrige and daughter, Miss Hawkrige, and niece, Miss Hoff, who have been with Mr. Dean and family in the Bernard cottage, left this week on their return north. Mr. Hawkrige came south for his health and improved greatly at first but has been ill lately.

Mrs. S. R. McConnell arrived last week from Pinehurst, N. C., where she has been spending the winter and joined her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. M. Rogers, at their winter home on the corner of North Halifax avenue and Peninsula drive.

Mrs. Robert C. Waterson has a card from Mrs. Florence Johnson, who left here last week for California, dated at New Orleans, in which she stated that the trip over had been very pleasant indeed. Mrs. Johnson was one of the first to join our little Seabreeze community and is one of the staunchest supporters it ever had. While she has left Seabreeze to make her future home in California, her friends cherish a hope that after she has paid her California friends a visit she may decide to return to sunny Florida and City Beautiful.

A winter resident who has a number of handsome orange trees wishes to call the attention of those interested in the fact that the white fly is abroad again. He further advises them to see to it that their trees are properly sprayed after the fruit is set if they expect to save the beauty of the foliage as well as the fruit.

Palm Sunday will be observed next Sabbath at the Peninsula churches with appropriate services.

Truman P. Cardiner, who has been enjoying a mid-term vacation with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner at their winter cottage on Glenview boulevard and North Halifax avenue, left Monday on his return to the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Uebelhoefer entertained most delightfully Friday evening at their well-appointed winter home on North Atlantic avenue. Cards and music were enjoyed, after which a chille con carne luncheon was served. Eighteen guests were present.

ALLANDALE.

ALLANDALE, March 31, 1914.—The guests for the week at Ye Inn were Mr. E. G. Child, Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. George Williamson, Daytona; Mrs. J. J. Strader, Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss E. Bradley, Philadelphia, Pa.; Charles Brelsford and wife, St. Paris, Ohio; E. W. Miller and wife, Millington, Ill.; J. M. Bradley and wife, Troy, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dickey of Wiloughby, Ohio, who spent some time at the Inn last month, have returned from Etis and expect to remain for some time. Mr. Dickey bought some of the fine lots here and will no doubt build a winter home here for himself and son-in-law.

Paul W. Orchard has spent a week at Ye Inn and will be here for a week or so longer.

Mrs. W. B. Vorhees of Roscoe, N. Y., is still with us and would like to remain longer but business demands that she return home, but will return to us again as she finds that Allandale is just right. She has enjoyed the restful Inn and visiting her friend, Mrs. Needham, of Port Orange.

B. Dorrance, wife and daughter, who have been spending the winter at Ocean Spring, Miss., will be at the Allandale Inn April 6th to spend a week or ten days visiting with their old friends, Colonel and Mrs. Roe.

Mr. and Mrs. Christianity and son entertained Mrs. F. Zimmerman, Mrs. Hews and Miss Brock at dinner on Sunday. Ye Inn became a most popular place on Sunday. Twenty-two sat down to dinner on Sunday.

The alligator that was found in the hole at Norwood is now caged in the rear of the Inn. J. W. Rusk, with the help of the Legs boys, caught him, and after a hard fight snaked him out and put him in a cage that had been made for his gatorship. He measures five feet six inches and is some fighter. He is having visitors plenty, as everybody that visits Allandale goes in to see him. Besides the big one there are nine small ones that are also to be seen at the Inn.

A very pleasant trip was made over to DeLand on Saturday by a party made up to Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. Needham, Mrs. C. Thomas of Port Orange and Mrs. W. B. Voorhees and the Rikemans from Allandale. The day was spent sightseeing in DeLand and a visit to DeLeon Springs. Work along the river is progressing finely; also on the new subdivision, Norwood. The two streets that are cut through from Ridgewood to the river will be beautiful. Those who bought lots on the corners will have great possibilities to improve when they build.

The J. W. Rusk house is receiving a coat of paint and is well advanced on the inside work, but will not be finished this season as Rusk and Andrews are forced to return to the summer business in the Catskills, but they will return early in the fall and finish their home and build the studio and a bungalow on Ridgewood.

"Captain," said a wealthy passenger who was about to take his first trip across the ocean, "I understand this ship has got several water-tight compartments?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "Captain," the passenger went on decidedly, "I want one of those compartments—I don't care what costs!"—London Telegraph

METROPOLITAN MUSEUM of ART

MAIN ENTRANCE

THE Metropolitan Museum of Art is the greatest treasure house in the western world. If it were not such an orderly establishment it might be compared to an Aladdin's cave, magnified a thousand times, for on its walls, in its cabinets and in its fireproof, burglar-proof storage vaults are art objects worth $150,000,000, exclusive of its financial resources of upward of $10,000,000. It holds individual works of art that are the finest things of their kind in the world; it has collections that have no peers in the great galleries of Europe. It is only 42 years since it was organized, and in that half the span of its history, president's life it has grown from an idea to the greatest marvel in the history of art museums in the world. And it never has been able to exhibit anything like all the art objects in its possession.

Long Called an Art Pirate.

It is only for the reason that it is such a polite institution that one refrains from calling the museum a kind of gorgeous pirate's lair, filled with such treasures, magnified a thousand-fold, as the Kidds and Morgans of the Spanish Main were wont to gather in as loot from the galleons and cities they sacked.

Indeed, ever since the Metropolitan museum trustees made their second purchase of a collection as a whole in 1872, when they took the Oenolia antiques away from the British museum, our greatest art institution has been looked upon in Europe as an art pirate ranging the seas of that particular world and picking up every available treasure that showed its sail above the horizon. What Disraeli could not induce the British nation to do—to keep the Colonna Madonna through its purchase—J. Pierpont Morgan was able to accomplish and bring it to New York. The museum, however, is the most honest pirate's lair that ever was.

When the museum was first organized, in 1871, the officers and trustees started out to raise $250,000, and the first collection they bought was one of 175 paintings of European schools, for which they paid $116,180.37. At the present time there are two single objects in the museum that cost $500,000 each, and the institution has only recently been presented with the Benjamin Altman collection of 76 paintings that are valued at $15,000,000.

That comparison serves to indicate the spirit with which the museum is regarded nowadays as compared to the era of its beginning, when its first important acquisition—the Oenolia collection of Cypriot antiques—caused the most acrimonious art battle that this country ever has known, and when the museum seemed to have more enemies than friends. Now it seems to have nothing but friends, whose liberality surpasses that of any of the great prodigals of history or fiction.

The leader of these friends of the museum is the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who still lives within the walls of the building in spirit and whose benefactions in the forms of gifts, loans and influence are as vital today as they were before his death. There is scarcely a gallery in the whole of the many-chambered structure that does not bear evidence of his generosity and his catholicity of taste.

From the entrance hall, with its Don Quixote tapestries that are reputed to have cost the late financier $340,000, through the classical, Egyptian, Decorative Art, Painting and Sculpture and Ceramic departments—everywhere one sees the name of J. Pierpont Morgan affixed to object after object either as a donor or a lender of all these precious things. And in the storage vaults of the museum there is hanged case after case, containing all of his Egyptian treasures save the 30 paintings now on view, that are to be shown next January in the new north wing that is to be devoted to exhibiting these Mexican treasures and nothing else.

Many Priceless Loans.

In itself this collection that is yet to be seen is the greatest group of art objects ever brought together by one man in the world. Its estimated value of $75,000,000 does not include many things that Mr. Morgan had loaned or given to the museum before his death. Chief of these is the Garland-Morgan collection of Chinese porcelains that has no peer anywhere in the world. Mr. Morgan paid $750,000 for the Garland collection alone, and to this he added pieces after piece (one Hawthorne vase cost $50,000) from his private collection, until today the objects in that one room are worth at least $1,500,000. Then there is the Mazarin tapestry, "The Kingdom of Heaven," for which Mr. Morgan is reported to have paid $500,000 and which is regarded by all authorities on textiles as the finest piece of tapestry in the world. The Hoent-schel collection of Gothic and French Renaissance furniture and decorations cost $1,250,000, and of these he presented the Gothic portion outright to the museum.

Although it is not so showy as some of the collections of paintings, this department of the museum is its greatest single feature from the viewpoint of educational value. In the place where the Mazarin tapestry and the Hoent-schel collection are shown—together with the Morgan Merovingian collection from the seventh century—is the splendid gift of Mrs. Russell Sage, the famous Bolles collection of Colonial furniture, comprising 360 pieces, for which Mrs. Sage is reported to have paid $100,000. This wing of Decorative Arts also shelters some early Gothic sculptures and wood carvings, loaned by Mr. Morgan in the past, that are among its chief treasures.

Though we speak of monetary value of these collections and objects in definite terms, they are the valuations placed on them at the time they were presented to the museum or acquired by it through purchase. Consequently these figures give little idea of the present value of the collections, owing to the fact that within the last quarter of a century the intrinsic value of all art objects has advanced in an extraordinary way.

No Hitch in the Program.

A characteristic story of the late Joseph Pulitzer about himself was one relating to an occurrence which took place after he had become editor and part proprietor of the Westliche Post. He had given great offense to a certain judge in St. Louis and the latter declared one day from the bench that before the sun set he would seek out Pulitzer and shoot him down like a dog. If my memory serves me, Mr. Pulitzer was in court when this threat was made—in any case it came to his ears—and he immediately issued an "extra" announcing the proposed assassination and stating that he would remain in his office until the setting of the sun in order that no hitch might occur in the program.—Atheyne Ireland in Metropolitan.

"Captain Charlie"

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press

To begin at the beginning, Charles F. Thorpe was the son of an innkeeper near Cheltenham, England, and at the age of eighteen had the reputation of being a roysterer. He did not drink or gamble, and no one could say that he was dishonest or unfaithful, but he craved adventure and was constantly in trouble.

He accidentally shot a gamekeeper and was sent to the penal colony at Botany Bay, Australia. He escaped from there and became a bushranger. I was herding sheep on the Bogan river when one evening young Thorpe walked in on me. He was in good health, full of good nature, and his convict life had not hardened his heart.

Young Thorpe had no sooner taken to the bush than he was given the title of "Captain Charlie." For the first seven or eight months he had no companions. During this time all his work was on the highway. He held up several stages and half a hundred lone travelers and on three occasions shot men from their saddles. He had the reputation of being brave to recklessness and of being a "square man." He would not rob a poor man, nor would he shoot unless fired upon first. If he stopped a stage and there were women passengers he treated them with the utmost courtesy. He would take nothing from a settler without paying for it, and now and then he gave them warning that the natives were out on a raid and gave them time to prepare for defense.

He would probably have continued to work alone had it not been for an escaped convict named Treat. This man was thoroughly vicious and had not one redeeming trait. In escaping from the penal settlement he killed two of the guards, and he was no sooner in the bush than he gathered around him five or six other hard cases, and began a merciless war on all outsiders.

In three months they killed eight travelers, settlers and herders, and, not content with highway robbery, they looted stores, taverns and farmhouses and applied the torch in sheer wantonness. Looking upon "Captain Charlie" as a nabby pambly fellow, who was unworthy of being called a bushranger, they sought to hunt him down. In self defense he organized a band of his own, numbering five, and, though they were pretty tough fellows, he held them well in hand and would permit no violence when it could be avoided. The first meeting between the two bands took place on my range.

Treat had somehow heard that I was friendly to "Captain Charlie." He made a night ride of thirty-five miles with his band to kill me and destroy the herd. The captain heard of his intentions, and just at sunrise one morning both bands rode out of the scrub within fifty rods of my hut. A fight took place at once, and within ten minutes Treat's band was driven off with the loss of three men. "Captain Charlie" had one man killed and two wounded.

An adventure much talked of through New South Wales was the "halling up" of sixteen mounted police, who had followed "Captain Charlie" and three of his men into the hills. Worn out with thirty hours of hard riding, the entire band fell asleep at night in their camp. The bushrangers crept in on them and ran off their horses and removed every firearm and then vanished. Every one could have been killed while he slept, but no one was harmed.

On another occasion "Captain Charlie" learned that two bushrangers who had lately set up in business in his territory had made prisoners of three men and their wives, who were traveling by stage, and were holding them in the hills for ransom. He made a ride of forty miles with his men, hunted through the hills for two days and finally found the captives. As the bushrangers refused to give them up without ransom, the captain paid over to them the sum of $2,000 in gold and escorted the grateful people to the nearest farmhouse. He then returned and warned the two trespassers to leave his territory, and while making their way north they were captured by the police.

In only one instance did the chevalier of the bush betray a spirit of revenge. A settler whom he had several times befriended put the police on his track, and in escaping pursuit he rode his favorite horse to death. Later on he captured his betrayer on the highway and tied him to a tree and gave him a terrible whipping.

For a period of two years and a half "Captain Charlie" held full sway in the district, hotly pursued most of the time, but always escaping, but at last his time came, as it came to all others of his ilk. There was a quarrel in his band, and it divided. He came to my hut with a companion one night at midnight, and after I had prepared them a meal they lay down and slept till daylight. Meanwhile the men who had broken away got word to the police, and at daylight the bluecoats were in ambush around the hut. As the two men stepped out they were shot down in their tracks, and both were dead when the officers got them. Somewhere among the hills "Captain Charlie" had planted plunder, believed to amount to $50,000; but, though it has been searched for by scores of men for the last thirty-five years, it has never been found.
